A Bill for Thought.
Big Railroad Deals.
Hoover and Smith Bets.
Devil Fish and Bootlegger.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

(Copyright, 1928.)

THE McNary-Haugen bill is enthusiastically passed by the Senate. There are elections coming. The House will pass it also, many that vote for it counting on the President's veto to counteract their vote.

THAT the President will veto the bill is probable and that it will be passed over his veto is probable.

According to wise men, some "best minds," far removed from farming, now approve the bill.

ANYTHING to make the farmers more prosperous would be welcomed, but the so-called "Farmers Bill" may surprise farmers when understood.

According to wise ones, the government would tell packers at what price they must buy hogs, and tell flour men at what price they must buy wheat. And the government would guarantee profits to packers and flour men, After they had sold all the American public would buy, at prices much increased, of course, packers, millers, cotton men, etc., would "dump" the balance in foreign markets at any price obtainable.

And whatever the "processes" lost by dumping, the government would make up in hard cash, taken from taxpayers. There is an equalization plan of doubtful value,

ANOTHER feature of the bill would be complicated bookkeeping and inspection, involving gigantic armies of additional public servants.

When a packer buys a pig he changes it into scores of products. He would report profits and losses to the government, and the government would have to investigate every detail. The prospect of government price-fixing, with guarantees and inflation, worries some men that think.

BIG railroad combinations are good for everybody.

The Pennsylvania, having swallowed Mr. Loree's railroad lines, giving him a profit of about $25,000,000, will now establish a direct line from New York to Detroit.

It is probable, also, that Gen. Atterbury, head of the Pennsylvania system, will, before long, run flying machines from New York to Detroit, and a combination rail and air line from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

BIG combinations make big enterprises possible, and the law should encourage them.

The best thing would be one great system for the whole country—like the postoffice system—the ablest railroad men running it, with the people as owners. But since it is agreed that our government lacks the honesty and ability that makes government ownership successful in other countries, big mergers are next best.

If the people are not intelligent enough to watch a few big concerns they would not be able to watch a lot of little concerns.

WALL STREET bets six to five that Hoover will be nominated, five to one that Dawes will not be nominated, three and a half to one against Lowden.

Wall street is supposed to oppose Hoover's nomination, but does not allow sentiment to influence betting.

Al Smith would be better than ten to one for the Democratic nomination, but no one wants to bet against him. His friends believe he will be nominated on the first ballot,

WHEN a dog, pursuing, gets too close to a skunk, something happens and the dog knows better next time.

A devil fish, pursued, blackens the water with a cloud of blackness.

The electric eel shocks those that seize it. The porcupine has his prickly protection. And from all these, the intelligent bootlegger has borrowed an idea,

POLICEMAN BEAUREGARD, of Trenton, Mich., decided to overhaul a fast car that looked like a rum runner. It was a rum runner. When Beauregard drew up close behind a cloud of poisonous gas streamed from the exhaust pipe and Beauregard fell over, unconscious. The bootlegger carried a tank of poison gas, connected with the exhaust.

TODAY the General Electric Company, through its station WGY, will attempt to broadcast a program originating in Australia. Tune in at 6 o'clock this morning and you will hear Sydney, Australia, talking at 8 p. m., their time.

That connection through the air will be important if ever Australia finds herself waging the white man's fight against Asia. The Australians will always get friendly messages from this country.

TODAY Senator Borah warns Republicans that "corruption is the big issue in this national election.

"The Republican party must prove that it belongs neither to crooks nor cowards."

PERHAPS corruption OUGHT to be the big issue, but it is not.

Millions of farmers want better prices for wheat, pork, cotton, corn.

Millions of investors want continued high prices and paper profit.

Millions of workers want continued high wages.

Those are the issues that will influence votes.

Stealing a few tens of millions from the government will not influence many, especially as the men nominated will have had nothing to do with the stealing.

AIR ACES AMAZED AT DIN

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN.
International News Service.

NEW YORK, April 30.—Two million people roared their acclaim today to the two daring Germans, Baron Gunther Von Huenefeld and Capt. Hermann Koehl, and the fearless Irishman, Maj. James C. Fitzmaurice, who piloted the monoplane Bremen to the North American continent, the first time that epic feat had been accomplished.

Thrilled by the sight of these brave men, the people of New York City unloosed a riot of noise that rolled in great waves over the city and out across the harbor. Great throngs blackened the sidewalks and streets for miles and cheered themselves hoarse; thousands of others stood on vessels in the harbor and added their mite to the din, as bands played, whistles blew and sirens shrieked.

The city's welcome swept along streets gay with the colors of three nations, the Stars and Stripes, the black, red and gold of the German republic and the green, white and orange of the Irish Free State.

Young May Turns Parents' Paris Party Into Honeymoon

Associated Press.

PARIS, April 30.

THE big silver wedding anniversary party for which Mr. and Mrs. Walter May brought three score of their friends all the way from Pittsburgh to Paris has been turned into a honeymoon.

The Mays' 21-year-old son, Walter, Jr., graspd the festive opportunity to bring his fiancee to Paris along with the guests whom his father invited, and married her here. She was Miss Florence M. Lebowitz before her marriage last Friday, the day of the Mays' anniversary. The ceremony was performed with as much secrecy as possible. The civil ceremony was held in the Sixth Ward, after which Rabbi Samuel Goldenson, one of the members of the Pittsburgh party, performed the religious ceremony.

Walter May, Jr., had been instructed by his father to bring a list of 62 friends to Paris and instead brought 63, the father and mother never having met their son's bride.

The newlyweds, instead of returning home with the party on the Berengaria on Saturday, will remain in Europe on a honeymoon,

2 Sleuths Dropped In Graft

Accused of grafting, County Detectives Edward Weber and John Carmichael were today suspended by District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner. Detective Chief George W. Murren was ordered by the District Attorney to prefer a charge of extortion against the suspended sleuths.

Prohibition Administrator John D. Pennington furnished the information which resulted in the suspension of the two officers. In a raid on the moonshine plant of Tony Brescio, at Glassmere, East Deer township, early this month, the two detectives are said to have permitted Brescio to retain the still found there. Brescio is said to have given the two officers $200.

After the complaint had been filed with the District Attorney an investigation was made, resulting in the suspension. Weber is one of the oldest members of the force.

BRING ME EVIDENCE, CLARK CHALLENGES

Resenting the title of "supine, weak-kneed director," Public Safety Director James M. Clark today flung back the gauntlet to the East End Ministerial Association with the announcement—"My door is always open to anybody with a complaint."

He extended an invitation to the Rev. A. V. B. Hightower, Negro minister who told the 3,000 or more East End residents gathered at last night's protest meetings in three churches, he had been insulted and intimidated when he complained of conditions in the Hill district, to bring "substantial evidence" to his office and declared he would guarantee police action.

MAYOR IS SILENT

Mayor Charles H. Kline has nothing to say about the alleged vice conditions revealed by John D. Pennington, federal prohibition administrator; Miss Helen Harris, of the Kingsley House, and Assistant U. S. Attorney Louis E. Graham, Pennington's legal adviser. It was the latter who termed Clark "our supine, weak-kneed director."

Police Inspector John P. Clancey, accused by Hightower of "intimidation and insulting accusations," denied the minister's charges, claiming he had invited him to his office merely to hear what evidence he might have to offer.

"I will consider calling in the constable in the Fifth Ward about whom complaint has been made," said District Attorney S. H. Gardner today, regarding a statement by the Rev. Mr. Hightower, that the constable was working in East Liberty instead of attending to duties in the Fifth Ward.

RAIDS ON PREACHER'S TIPS

Pennington, at his office today, further revealed that he had made approximately 25 raids on information furnished by the Negro pastor. He said he knew nothing of moonshine being sold to children and did not contemplate any further investigation of illicit liquor traffic on the Hill at this time. He said he was more concerned with the major sources of supply.

Director Clark was indignant over Graham's insinuations at last night's meeting.

"Men can say a lot of things

"Fixer!" Cry In Coal Quiz

Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Charges that the Pittsburgh Coal Company had financially aided "communist activities" among the miners were made before the Senate Coal Committee today by Louis McGrew, editor of the Labor World, Pittsburgh, and were immediately described as maliciously false by Don Rose, counsel for the company.

McGrew's statement precipitated a fiery series of personalities between him and Rose.

"I don't think Mr. McGrew believes that there is anything to what he said," shouted the attorney.

"Listen here, Don," retorted the witness, "you've done rougher stuff than that."

"I'm not on trial," Rose returned.

"Blows Off Lid"

"Well, I'll put you on trial," said McGrew. "If I told all I know about you, this ceiling would fall down, and I'll come down here in two weeks and do it. You've been a 'fixer' ever since you became attorney for the Pittsburgh Coal Company. You can't deny that 'Buttsy' Joyce is your jury fixer."

"I never fixed a jury in my life," replied Rose, "and there's nothing to any of this."

McGrew had outlined what he called a history of "Red propaganda" among the coal miners of

5 Confess In Vote Fraud

Another smashing blow was dealt ballot cheating today when five members of two election boards pleaded "no defense" in Criminal Court, and a city employe was ordered arrested charged with having served as a "spurious" election judge.

DeRosa told Judge H. H. Rowand that Agnalzi, an "experienced" election official, had taken DeRosa's place as judge of election in the Ninth District, Twelfth Ward, at the September primaries and had supervised the vote count after the polls closed.

"I went to church," said DeRosa. "It was my first experience on an election board."

When Albert Temple, 20, Aliquippa (Pa.), cautioned his sister about going on a "joyride" with his wife and three men, "Pete"—the only name police know—stepped from the car and shot twice at him, witnesses say. Temple didn't forbid his wife the trip.

A. R. GLOVER

Temple was a guest of A. R. Glover in Glover's houseboat, South Heights, when the automobile party rolled up. Glover tells the story of the shooting as other witnesses.

THE SCENE

It was here, as the artist illustrates, that "Pete" fired twice at Temple as Temple sought to cast off one of the other men who left the machine and tussled with him. After the shooting the party fled, Temple's wife and his sister, Mrs. Edric Batzel, Woodlawn, said to be separated from her husband, going along in the car, believed to have headed for Pittsburgh. Harry Crain, another houseboat guest and a friend of Temple's was shot in the hand when he attempted to wrest the gun from "Pete." State and Aliquippa police seek the car's occupants,

HOLDS HIM IN DEATH

Mrs. H. C. Jones, another sister, held Temple as he died as the result of the gunfire. Mrs. Glover, hostess to the party on the houseboat, is another witness in the case. Temple and his wife, out with the strange men, recently had difficulties, it is said, and a furniture company recently seized their belongings.

"WE" ON LAST FLIGHT; MUSEUM GETS SHIP

International News Service

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 30.—"We" started on "our" last flight today.

Taking off from Lindbergh Field here this morning, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, turned his Spirit of St. Louis toward Washington, D. C., and the Smithsonian Institute, where the historical plane will be housed as a permanent exhibit.

Lindbergh indicated there would be no ceremonies when he turned the epoch-making plane over to the institute.

The intrepid flier arrived at the field here about 8:15 and began preparations to take his trans-Atlantic flight partner into the air for its last trip.

A large crowd was present to bid farewell to the plane that spread the name of St. Louis to the four corners of the world.

Lindbergh climbed into the plane and with a farewell wave to the crowd, "Gave 'er the gun" and was off at 9 o'clock.

The plane dashed smoothly down the runway and took the air gracefully. The trans-Atlantic ace circled the machine over the city and headed for Washington, where he plans to land at Bolling Field.

Mechanics had tuned up the machine, and everything was in readiness for the take-off when the flier arrived at the field for the last flight of the other half of "We."

The ship, which has flown slightly more than 40,000 miles under the hand of its famous pilot in a score of countries in its year of existence, carried Lindbergh through his epoch making New York-to-Paris flight, a tour of the United States and Canada and the goodwill flight to South America.

Millions of people, craning to catch a glimpse of its flashing silver wings, have thrilled to the sound of its motor, knowing that it was part of a matchless combination that has written air history. Its fame caught the fancy of young and old alike, and thousands of miniature copies were built which found place on the mantels of homes, in show windows and many public places.

Built in San Diego, Cal., early last year, the trim monoplane first took flight under the hand of "Slim" Lindbergh, air mail pilot, aspirant to trans-Atlantic honors on May 11.

A non-stop flight to St. Louis and then to New York brought Lindbergh and the Spirit of St. Louis to Roosevelt Field, where the take-off on the New York-to-Paris flight was made May 20.

The termination of the South American tour February 13 brought the Spirit of St. Louis to rest in a National Guard hangar here, where it has been kept under guard. The announcement last night by Col. Lindbergh brought a tinge of regret to St. Louisans. They were loath to take leave of the plane to which they had attached an affection and which had carried the name of their city to many climes and to many peoples.

Col. Lindbergh himself spoke with an accent of pride as he told of the miles the single-motored plane had traversed without failing.

"The Spirit has flown slightly more than 40,000 miles," he said. "It has been inspected several times and nothing materially wrong has been found. It is apparently in perfect mechanical condition."

WATER POWER SAVES BELLEFONTE IN STORM

BELLEFONTE, Pa., April 30.—Bellefonte went back to water power to save the town from a water famine when the Saturday snow isolated the town. All power lines went down and the electrically operated pumps at the reservoir were put out of commission. One pump operated by water power saved the town. Four feet of snow fell in the mountains. Russell Stover, 28, of Snydertown, suffered a fractured skull when a telegraph pole fell across his auto.

CLARK DEMANDS EVIDENCE

about other men, but they cannot always prove them," he said. "If I wish, I could say a lot of nasty things about Mr. Pennington and Mr. Graham, but I do not care to engage in any such tactics.

"My door has always been open since the time I became director of public safety and I have always been willing to hear complaints. If any substantial evidence is presented I will guarantee action.

"On one or two occasions, Pennington did turn over evidence to me and each time, our policemen made investigations and reports were sent back to the federal administrator."

"If Pennington has any specific charges, I want him to come to my office and present the complaints together with names, addresses and dates and I will guarantee prompt police action," he declared.

CALLS IT BALLYHOO

Clark characterized last night's protest meeting as "ballyhoo" and a "publicity stunt." He said he heard William E. (Pussyfoot) Johnson speak in the Point Breeze Presbyterian Church last night and was considerably disappointed in what the well-known reformer had to say. The director said he expected to hear something about local conditions, but the speaker spent the time telling about prohibition in India and the Orient.

Resolutions calling for federal and county grand jury investigations and endorsing Pennington's administration were signed by more than 2,000 persons last night. Two big overflow meetings were held in connection with the main meeting in the Sixth United Presbyterian Church. The ministerial committee of five, which arranged the protest meeting, was unanimously endorsed and recommendations adopted to increase the committee to include one representative from each of the 25 churches participating in the campaign.

TO MAKE AFFIDAVITS

Affidavits setting forth the demands of the meeting will be made by the committee of five and turned over to federal authorities at Washington and local officials charged with the enforcement of state liquor laws, it was stated by the Rev. A. R. Robinson, chairman. No further action is anticipated until the full committee is organized and begins functioning as a body, he declared.

Speakers at last night's meeting did not mince words in placing their accusations of "organized and commercialized vice" before citizens. Graham, particularly, spoke in no uncertain terms about lawlessness and charged that politics was responsible. He told the citizens they had no right to complain if they failed to register a real protest at the polls and insisted that it was every individual's duty to vote. "The ballot," he said, "is the most powerful weapon against commercialized vice."

CITIZENS URGED TO ACT

Miss Harris also urged the citizens to use their voting powers to rid the city of vice. She spoke of the "pathetic apathy of the citizenry" as being largely responsible for conditions.

The Rev. Mr. Hightower, who is president of the Afro-American Brotherhood of the World, with state headquarters at 2905 Bedford avenue, shocked many of his hearers with his revelation of conditions in his district. He said crime flourishes under police protection and the deplorable conditions are known around the city.

SCARRED BY FLAMES

The family of G. R. Painter, 1464 Warman avenue, Brookline, returning home today after visiting friends, found its home in flames. After "quenching" the blaze the family went to neighbors' homes to sleep. Several hours later the house was burning again. The kitchen's above.

HELPERS

Anna Grace and Mary Martha, 10, twins, and Marian Giroux Painter, 7, helped fight the blaze with Mr. and Mrs. Palmer the first time. The second time flames burned out a number of rooms throughout the house. Strangely enough, the exterior of the little home is unscathed by fire.

the same board, pleaded no defense to negligence in performing their duties, the fourth count in the indictment against them.

Two members of the board of the Fourth District, Twenty-second Ward, William J. Stone and John Vaughan, inspectors, entered similar pleas.

SLOWED UP BY DRINK

Stone told the court he had been drinking and "couldn't keep up with the count."

Dispositions of cases of all five defendants was postponed. The pleas today make a total of eight election boards that have entered pleas or have been convicted of irregular practices at the polls since the campaign opened. Thirty more boards are to be called for trial.

Judges John A. Evans and J. Frank Graff sat with Judge Rowand in hearing evidence in the cases of S. L. Ostrosky, judge, and Edward Brown and Isadore Shafer, inspectors, Thirty-second District, Fifth Ward; William Bulger, judge, and James Coyne, inspector, Second District, Twenty-fifth Ward. All previously had entered pleas of no defense.

Boards of the Seventeenth District, Third Ward, and of the First District, Fourth Ward, Homestead, are listed for trial tomorrow.

WOMEN RAP PRIMARY

A general violation of the election laws at last Tuesday's primary was due in large measure to the failure of the County Commissioners "to perform the duties that your oath of office demands," charged Mrs. J. C. Miller, head of the League of Women Voters, in an open letter today to Joseph G. Armstrong, chairman of the board.

Mrs. Miller charged that an investigation by members of her organization showed in nine districts of the Seventeenth Ward there were no guard rails, that in several watchers were handling the ballots, and that in all but four ballots were being detached and folded for use before they were called for by voters. Political posters were plastered on the inside walls of polling places contrary to law, she said.

Some of the polling places in the Third and Fifth Wards, Mrs. Miller charged, are "outrageously unfit." Assistance to voters, the investigators found, was in some cases being given illegally, conditions in general "ranging all the way from the ridiculous to a little short of tragic."

In one place, Mrs. Miller wrote, one man whose attention was called to the fact that the appearance of political posters inside the polling place was a law violation said, "To hell with the law," adding that politicians paid good money for the posters and "there ain't no use having them spoiled out there in the rain."

DOPE THEFT SUSPECT SHOT

A suspected member of a band of dope thieves was shot and probably fatally wounded early today in fleeing from police after he and five companions are said to have stolen narcotics from the Columbia Pharmacy, Penn and Trenton avenues, Wilkinsburg.

Police say that Charles Beattie, 19, of 5116 Kincaid street, who is in the Pittsburgh Hospital in a critical condition, is the man shot by the policeman. Beattie has two bullet wounds in the back.

According to Lieut. Belmont Pugh, of the Wilkinsburg police force, he fired several shots at six youths he saw running from the store. They leaped into an automobile and drove away, followed in another car by Pugh.

An hour later Beattie was left at the hospital by several young men who departed without giving their names. Beattie refused to tell how he had been wounded and he denied participating in the robbery. Acting Capt. Nuncie Marino of the Frankstown avenue police station, said that Beattie was wanted in Pittsburgh for robberies in the East End.

Louis Breyer, manager of the store, told police that the establishment had been robbed Friday night and $50 in cash stolen from the till. It is not known just how much loot was obtained this morning. The lock on the narcotic chest had been broken and Lieut. Pugh says that a quantity of dope had been stolen. Beattie is under police guard.

3 SEEKING CURE BY AIR DIVE KILLED

EUREKA, Cal., April 30.—(AP.)—Three men are dead because a musician whose hearing was impaired believed an airplane dive from a great height would restore his ability to catch the lighter notes of an orchestra.

The musician persuaded an aviator and a fellow musician to attempt the dive here yesterday. An airplane wing which buckled as the flier tried to check the drop sent the trio hurtling 3,500 feet to earth, where their crumpled plane burned before the bodies could be extricated. Several hundred persons saw the crash.

William Spaletta, World War flier.

Willard Winzel, 45, pianist and composer, whose hearing was growing defective to an extent which hampered his work.

Larry Beatty, musician and friend of Winzel.

After agreeing to give Winzel the dive expected to improve his hearing, Spaletta climbed to a great height and dived. About 3,500 feet up the left wing buckled as Spaletta attempted to straighten out the plane.

The plane fell with such force that the engine was buried in the earth.

Gasoline from broken tanks spattered over the wreckage and ignited before the spectators could reach the spot.

Winzel's widow said he had read of recent reports that airplane dives improved defective hearing, and had determined to try it, although he had a premonition that the flight would kill him.

BALKANS SHAKEN AGAIN; PEOPLE NEAR MADNESS

VIENNA, April 30.—(AP.)—Terror reigned today among the people of Southeastern Bulgaria and the Isthmus of Corinth after a continuance of the series of earthquakes which has bereaved them and made them destitute.

Shocks in Bulgaria were accompanied in some instances by the sudden appearance of miniature craters and small lakes. These, with the relentless and continuous shaking of the earth, accompanied by terrifying subterranean roars, kept a distraught, shelterless and half-naked population in a state bordering on madness.

The quake was accompanied by a violent hailstorm at Borisovgrad, which was already laid waste by previous upheavals. The storm destroyed all remaining vestiges of vegetation and killed many cattle. Successive shocks were also felt at Philippopolis, Tapazli, Tchirpan and Stara Zagora.

Austrian scientists said the quakes were of tectonic character, involving the shifting of giant strata from vertical to horizontal. They thought that the tremors might extend to other parts of the Balkans which have been devastated by similar disturbances from prehistoric times.

The people of Corinth, where but a few weakened structures have survived, were panic-stricken when another quake occurred. Unconfirmed reports said much damage had been caused in Isthmia and Velos and some at Assos and Xylocastro.

Madame Paul Koundouriotis, wife of the president of Greece, went to Corinth to superintend relief work and is living in a tent there. Three Italian ships arrived with tents for the thousands of refugees.

PLAY CATCH WITH BOAT ADRIFT

NORFOLK, Va., April 30.—(AP.)—Three government craft which have been playing a game of catch on and let go with the shipping board steamer Western Ocean off the Virginia capes for a week were fighting heavy seas in an effort to get another tow line to her today, while a fourth ship was rushing to their assistance.

Twice before lines had been attached to the drifting ship, but storms intervened and parted them after she had been towed from 50 to 100 miles nearer shore. Last night, the craft, which has a crew of 34 aboard, was reported drifting 280 miles from the capes, 80 miles farther out than when she ran out of fuel, April 18.

Two coast guard cutters are now with the helpless craft, as also is the Navy tug, Keywaydin. The cutter, Seneca, was reported to have left New York to help, not only the Western Ocean, but the assisting craft themselves. Reports last night said they were having difficulty in a northwest gale, with waves breaking so high over the decks as to make rescue work there impossible.

The Western Ocean, laden with a general cargo for Norfolk and Baltimore broke away the second time within a week Saturday. Both he Mascoutin and Keywaydin had made lines fast to her and had towed her to within 250 miles from shore when the tow lines broke. The Mascoutin's was the first to go, but the Keywaydin held on until night.

Previously the Carrabassett had towed the craft within 200 miles from the capes when her line gave way. The cutter then had to return to port herself to refuel. Meanwhile the Mascoutin and Keywaydin went out to catch the drifting vessel, and since their leashes were cut the Western Ocean had drifted 130 miles farther eastward.

A 10-days' food supply has been furnished the 34 members of the crew by the Mascoutin.

The Western Ocean, operated for the Shipping Board by the Consolidated Navigation Co., is a 5,500-ton craft. She sailed from Hamburg March 29 for Norfolk.

DAVID BELASCO

DAVID BELASCO, dramatist and theatrical producer, born in San Francisco, July 25, 1859; graduated from Lincoln College, California, 1875; entered theatrical career as stage manager, in San Francisco Theaters and went to New York in 1880. Manager for E. H. Sothern, Mrs. Leslie Carter, Henrietta Crosman and other stars. Author of many successful plays. Resides in New York.

"Pittsburgh holds high place in my esteem. It always has. Years ago, when I planned to have a chain of theaters of my own, Pittsburgh was one of the first places I selected in which to establish a theater. Pittsburgh's splendid activity as a merchandising and manufacturing center and its beautiful residential sections, together with its development of educational advantages, give it enviable pre-eminence among municipalities. I am inclined to think that the industrial part of Pittsburgh, as expressed by its great iron and steel plants, has contributed to the development of all parts of the civilized world.

"Thank you for giving me an opportunity to express my high regard for Pittsburgh."

FIRE MENACE IN WATER SUPPLY

The fire fighting forces of Pittsburgh will be seriously handicapped by lack of proper water supply in case of large fires in several commercial and residential districts, Chief Richard L. Smith informed Council in a communication today.

The situation is "critical and needs immediate attention," said the chief, of several sections of the city, notably Allentown, Mt. Washington, Duquesne Heights and the South Side flats. In the last-named district, he said, the supply is adequate on the main streets, but is inadequate on the less important thoroughfares.

Improvements are needed throughout the entire city, his report stated, the Hill district, Squirrel Hill, East Carnegie, Crafton Heights, Sheraden and Esplen being especially mentioned. More and larger water mains are the principal needs, he said, naming scores of streets.

The chief's major recommendations were that all four-inch lines be replaced by six-inch mains, that all six-inch mains in service for 20 years or more be cleaned or replaced with six or eight-inch lines and that all streets paralleling business streets be equipped with eight-inch mains.

BANDIT SLAYS GIRL IN HOLDUP OF MOVIE THEATER

PANIC GRIPPED CROWD HELD AT BAY

CHICAGO, April 30.—(INS.)—The greatest manhunt of recent years was in progress here today in search of four bandits who last night shot and killed a 16-year-old girl cashier during a motion picture theater holdup.

The girl was shot through the heart when she involuntarily screamed from fright at the bandits' appearance. A girl assistant fainted at her side. The bandits calmly stepped over their bodies, scooped up $1,500 in currency and fled.

The bandits, armed with shotguns and revolvers, held 2,000 persons in the audience at bay as they backed out of the theater lobby. They escaped in a large closed automobile bearing a New York license plate.

PATRONS IN PANIC

The slain [illegible] was Miss Pearl Eggerson. The scene of the robbery was the large new Ritz Theater in Berwyn, West Side suburb. More than 2,000 patrons were thrown into a panic by the roar of guns.

Hundreds of screaming women and children stormed the exits and started racing down the lobby. But the booming of guns, aimed point blank at the frightened patrons, sent them cowering back to safety. The shots went wild.

Miss Eggerson, an usherette, had entered the ticket cage a few minutes before the robbery to assist Miss Gertrude Plante, the cashier, in a check of the day's receipts. It was just at the closing hour.

Miss Plante had gone to the manager's office, and Miss Eggerson was sorting currency when three dapper youths, unnoticed by her, stepped up to the door of the cashier's cage. They wore black masks and were heavily armed.

"Hand over the money!" one of them commanded.

GIRL SHOT DOWN

Taken completely by surprise, Miss Eggerson screamed. The bandit leader took deliberate aim and fired. Miss Plante returned in time to see her assistant fall. She fainted and fell at the door of the cage. Stepping carefully over the bodies, two of the bandits entered the cage and gathered up the currency, while the third held other employes, attracted by the shooting, at bay.

The cry of "holdup" echoed through the spacious theater and in an instant the aisles were jammed with frightened men, women and children. Warning shots held them at bay while the bandits backed to their car. A fourth bandit, who had remained at the wheel, drove them away.

Miss Eggerson, the pretty, 16-year-old victim, was a martyr to girlish ambition. She clerked in an Oak Park store through the week, most of her earnings being needed at home, and took the usherette job at the theater on Sundays only, in order to have a little extra money for her coming vacation.

All Kansas for Curtis, Will's Check Shows

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 30.—Out of all the states I have been in and out of all of those that have ambitious presidential sons, I take a straw vote every night, Curtis is the only one where he really has the backing of his state. Others just have family support. But old Kansas is for Charley. I am right now in the room in the Muelbach where the nomination will be held, and I can see Convention Hall where the delegates will be notified who has been nominated. It's their main suite of rooms here and they are in here now, working on ice boxes, sawdust and cuspidors.

"FIXER!" CRY IN QUIZ

Pennsylvania since 1900. In this connection he named the "Save the Union Committee" and the "Pennsylvania and Ohio Relief Society," whose late activities in that territory have claimed the attention of the Senate investigation committee from time to time.

Senator Wheeler (Dem.), Montana, asked "who if anybody is financing this new movement in Pennsylvania?"

The editor said he had not intended to go into that, but would read a prepared statement in view of the question, adding that the Pennsylvania operators had backed supposedly seditious organizations.

"We deny that," said Rose.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—The Senate's investigation of the coal strike returned today to conditions in the Pittsburgh district, with which the inquiry started.

Executive officers of the Pittsburgh Coal Company and Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation were on hand to present their side of the controversy with the United Mines Workers, and Oliver K. Eaton, Pittsburgh attorney for the union, was present to cross-examine them.

The first witness was Lewis McGrew, editor of the Labor World, of Pittsburgh, who testified concerning the development of the "Red" movement among the miners.

McGrew began his testimony with a statement concerning his record. He said he had been engaged in newspaper work in Pittsburgh since 1891, and that his interest was aroused first in the labor problems of industry in the Homestead steel strike.

Traces 'Red' History

McGrew traced the "Red" movement in Pittsburgh labor circles to Emma Goldman, the anarchist, who he said at one time had a big following in Pittsburgh. Among her disciples at one period, said McGrew, was Frank Feehan, formerly president of District No. 5 of the United Mine Workers.

McGrew told of the activities of radical labor leaders in Pittsburgh during the past 30 years. He mentioned Fred Merrick and W. Z. Foster as among the most prominent.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, asked McGrew a number of questions with a view to finding if the Labor World is subsidized by labor unions or employers of labor. McGrew denied that his paper was subsidized or under obligation to either of the parties to the coal strike.

McGrew said the radical "Save the Union" movement among the strikers was promoted by Communists led by W. Z. Foster, with the backing of the Soviet government of Russia.

McGrew said the "Save the Union" movement was a failure. He characterized it as "a dead cock in the pit."

"Planning Revolution"

The witness read samples of the Communist literature which he said was being circulated by the "Save the Union" adherents. It was of a treasonable character and showed that plans were being made for a revolution with the intention of overthrowing the United States government and setting up a government like that maintained by the Bolsheviki in Russia.

"Do you mean to tell us," asked Senator Guy D. Goff, of West Virginia, "that they are trying to set up a Soviet republic in this country?"

"I mean just that," said McGrew. "They have 150 papers in this country. You fellows ought to bar them from the mails.

"These Communists are raising funds in various ways. One of their ways is by raising money ostensibly for miners' relief.

"They are out to overthrow John L. Lewis, international president of the United Mine Workers, because they think that with him out of the way, they can get control of the miners' union.

"After they get control of the miners they will turn to the steel workers."

BROTHER SLAIN BY MAN TAKING SISTER ON PARTY

WIFE AND FOUR FLEE AFTER SHOOTING

Their husband and brother shot down while they watched, Mrs. Alice Temple, 19, the wife, and Mrs. Edrie Batzel, 18, the sister, left the victim unconscious in the roadway and fled, police say, with three unidentified men, one of whom fired the shots which killed Albert Temple, 20, of McGee avenue, Aliquippa. The five are sought in Pittsburgh where they are believed to be hiding.

Temple met the five at South Heights and he protested to his sister about her going on a party with the men and his estranged wife. He attempted to take his sister from the automobile in which the five were seated and this started a fight. While the two were struggling the driver of the machine, known as "Pete," drew a revolver and fired twice, both bullets striking Temple, who fell in the road.

Harry Crain, of Woodlawn, a friend of Temple, was shot in the hand when he grappled with the man who fired the shot. The three unidentified men drove off with the two women. Crain called his brother David and the two summoned police and a physician. Temple was dead when police arrived. The Crain brothers were arrested by state police and are being held in the Woodlawn jail as material witnesses.

State police immediately notified surrounding communities to be on watch for the automobile bearing the men and women and also communicated with Pittsburgh police. The man who fired the shot is said to have been recognized as a former resident of Woodlawn. Temple and the Crain brothers had been attending a party on a houseboat at South Heights when they recognized the women in the passing automobile.

STATE DIGS OUT AFTER STORM

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 30.—(AP.)—Normal conditions were rapidly being restored today in Western and Central Pennsylvania, which since Friday night has been buried under one of the heaviest April snow falls on record.

Nearly all of the highways, which had been blocked by huge drifts, were open, and most of the cities and towns, isolated when wires and poles snapped under the heavy loads of sleet and snow, again were in communication with the outside world.

The Pennsylvania Railroad said that passenger train service had been restored to normal, but that wire communication over some of its lines was still badly crippled.

NAVY GETS NEW BOMBERS

The new Navy bombers were given their first test in Cleveland and apparently satisfied authorities that they are capable of carrying 2,000-pound torpedos or bombs, climbing 12,000 feet, speeding 120 miles hourly, and wreaking, when necessary, much dissatisfaction. This is the first of 102 such planes.

The workmen told police they had heard someone moving in the store when they called the officers. Upon arrival police found evidence of a hasty flight, the rear door wide open. The door of the safe had been forced open, but the small inside door had not yet been touched. Nothing was taken, the police believe.

TRAFFIC OFFICER, SHOT IN FIGHT, NEAR DEATH

BARTENDER IS BEING HELD AS SUSPECT

Held in connection with the shooting of Traffic Patrolman William J. Anthony, Edward Sampeck, 22, of 3436 Butler street, was turned over to city detectives when arraigned today in Penn Avenue Police Court. Anthony is in the St. Francis Hospital in a critical condition.

The shooting is said to have taken place yesterday morning in an alleged speakeasy at the Butler street address, where Sampeck works as a bartender.

Miss Jewel Kelch, 19, of 1323 Breed street, who accompanied Anthony to the place, was questioned by detectives and Traffic Inspector Benjamin Marshall. She said that she and Anthony and John Haggerty, brother of the alleged owner of the establishment, had gone to the place shortly after Anthony quit work Saturday night and that they remained in the store until the time of the shooting. She was not arrested.

Anthony and Sampeck are said to have fought a short time preceding the shooting, but were separated. When they quarreled the second time the bartender is alleged to have obtained a revolver and shot the policeman. Anthony lives at 105 South Thirteenth street, is married and has two children. He has been a policeman three years.

SHOTS PERIL AUTOISTS

Several motorists driving in Carson street early this morning were endangered by shots fired into the street by, police said, George Shoup, 62, from his home on the second floor of 3475 Carson street.

Shoup, wielding a blackjack, fought with Patrolman John Stiglitz, the officer said, when he went to arrest him. Stiglitz overpowered Shoup and took him to the South Side Police Station. He is held on a suspicious person charge. No explanation has been offered for the shooting.

FRANCE FAVORS STABILIZING

PARIS, April 30.—(AP.)—France has indorsed Premier Raymond Poincare and his policy of stabilizing the franc by assuring him a comfortable majority of at least 100 in the next Chamber of Deputies.

With full results of the balloting of the last two Sundays compiled today the moderate supporters of Poincare had 326 seats in the new House or 45 more than in the former one. The combined Socialists, Radicals and Communists captured 287 seats as against 286 in the preceding chamber. Many radicals are regarded as certain to vote with the Poincare union government.

The radicals lost at least a dozen seats, and Leon Blum, leader of the Socialist party and an international figure, lost his seat to a Communist pastry cook, Jacques Duclos.

The principal victims of the battle of the ballots were the Communists, who lost nearly a half dozen seats. The famous "Red Belt" of Paris today was regarded as a thing of the past, Jean Garchery, Albert Fournier, Valliant-Courtrier and Andre Marty, who is now in prison, being among the leaders who met defeat.

Three of the Communists who managed to hold their seats, Jacques Doriot, Jacques Duclos and M. Menetrier, also are in jail, "prisoners of the state," as the Communist organ, Humanitie, puts it.

WIFE IS HELD IN MATE'S DEATH

PONTOTOC, Miss., April 30.—(AP.)—After more than a year's investigation, Mrs. Louise Wood Stegall, 30, has been indicted and arrested on a charge of first degree murder in connection with the death early last year of her husband, Herman Stegall, 36, a life insurance agent. The investigation was conducted by an insurance company which carried a 27,000 policy on Stegall, payable to his widow.

The state alleged Mrs. Stegall purchased poison shortly before her husband died and said the man died under "peculiar circumstances." The body will be exhumed and an autopsy performed.

WOMAN'S SUICIDE TRY SUCCESSFUL

Poison swallowed while despondent over domestic affairs caused the death yesterday of Mrs. Cecelia Stanley, 24, in her home at 211 Courtland street, Hazelwood, according to a report to the morgue. Death occurred a short time after she had swallowed the poison, the report states.

Gorman, 36, of 1008 Mellon street; his wife, Lucille, 33, and their children, Helen, 17; Carl R., Jr., and James R. Gorman, 14, twins. They were treated at the Allegheny General Hospital and taken home.

Gorman and Emmerson Forbes, 21, of Fernando street, driver of the other machine, were charged with reckless driving.

WHEELING, W. V., April 30.—(AP.)—State and county officers under the joint leadership of Alonzo Prince, deputy state prohibition commissioner and Sheriff Campbell, raided the grill room of the Washington Cafe Saturday night, while a banquet was in progress. They reported having seized a quantity of liquor in bottles hastily deposited under tables. One man was arrested. He was charged with possession.

SQUIRREL HILL ROBBER GETS $2,000 LOOT

Six highwaymen overpowered John Kalodezeyuk of 2821 Mulberry way near his home early today and robbed him of $10.

Michael Newell of 1200 Sherman avenue was beaten and robbed of $5 and his watch early today by two men who attacked him at Twenty-fifth street and Penn avenue.

Everywhere, You Hear About the Remarkable Mileage Being Obtained by Car Owners With "Stage Line Built"

SAMSON TIRES

Balloon — High Pressure — Stage and Truck

Ever notice that anywhere you hear tires being discussed, sooner or later the conversation turns to Samsons, and the remarkable mileages they are making in the hands of owners—mileages so much greater than those made by other tires that they stand out in a class by themselves and arouse comment and admiration on every hand?

There can be only one reason for such universal expression of this kind; and that reason lies in the stage line construction which Samson alone builds into its tires—and at a price no higher than that of ordinary cords.

Obviously, beautiful, comfortable passenger car tires built of the same heavy, rugged construction that is put into the great stage line tires to undergo the gruelling service of these massive busses, would give thousands of miles more service than tires built along ordinary lines.

Samson alone builds this unusual construction into its tires and that's why the remarkable Samson mileages are always the subject of comment wherever tire mileage is discussed.

You can get this same remarkable trouble-free mileage and cut your tire costs exactly as thousands of other motorists have done by putting on Samson Cords and getting stage line wear the next time you need tires.

It is our sincere belief that it is impossible to build a better tire than Samson

CITY'S RIGHT TO FINANCE RATE QUIZ UPHELD

Employment of special counsel and making a survey are included in Council's powers, the solicitor held. The ruling was in response to a request by Council following insistence by Councilman W. Y. English that Council act to prevent discrimination in freight rates against this district.

THE PITTSBURGH SUN-TELEGRAPH

Katherine McDonald's Sister, Mary McLaren, Returns From India and Plans "Come-back"

By MILDRED FILLMORE

DO you remember Mary McLaren, who appeared in quite a lot of Universal pictures and who won note in Lois Weber's picture, "Shoes?" Miss McLaren, as you may remember, was married to Col. G. H. Young, an English army officer, about four years ago. She retired from the screen and journeyed with her husband to India to live.

Now she is back in America and plans to stage a come-back in pictures. Her marriage, it seems, didn't turn out one of those they-lived-happily-ever-after affairs. A divorce is rumored.

At present, we learn from the West Coast, Clare is staying with her mother and with her sister, the former movie star, Katherine MacDonald.

Walter Butler, heralded by Samuel Goldwyn as a youthful and talented English actor, has arrived in Hollywood. And though Mr. Goldwyn plans to feature him in pictures, you are not likely to hear the name Butler again. For the young player is to appear under the name of Walter Byron. His first American movie venture will be as Vilma Banky's leading man in a picture titled, "The Innocent."

It is quite a glamorous crew that the Gotham people rounded up to man their ship, Mary Lou, during the filming of "Hellship Bronson." It includes Sailor Sharkey, who has spent 22 years of his life at sea; Shorty Leon, formerly of the Flying St. Leons, a circus act; Jimmy Phillips, Wyoming fair and rodeo cowboy; Leo and Carl Sepulveda, wrestlers; Black Jack Williams, who adventured through Africa and was later held by the revolutionists in Mexico for ransom, and Jack Sherman, who claims 300 prize fight battles.

And a word about the Mary Lou. This ship formerly was used by a gang of Pacific Coast rum runners. Later she was sold to a packing company and reconditioned as a refrigerator craft in the fishing business. When the Gotham people finished with vessel, she will go back to the fish business. Tough lines that, after her taste of glorious movie adventure.

Richard Barthelmess is going to war again. It will be in "Out of the Ruins," a Sir Philip Gibbs story of the World War, which First National will make into picture drammer. The story portrays the war from the standpoint of the French. Thus the picture will contrast with Richard's recent effort, "The Patent Leather Kid," which offered the war from the American angle.

In this connection we might note that Paramount is apparently keeping an eye on Mr. Barthelmess. This company would like to have him play the boy in the picturization of Theodore Dreiser's "An American Tragedy."

It was about two years ago that Paramount bought the screen rights to this work. For one reason and another, including the frowns of Will Hays, so-called movie czar, the filming has been postponed.

The little girl is the popular girl in the movies. Many of our favorite heroines aren't much over five feet tall. And most of them dont' weigh a great deal more than 100 pounds.

Take Vera Reynolds. She is one of the tiniest stars in the films. She is five feet tall and weighs 101 pounds. Barbara Kent and Marion Nixon are five feet and one inch tall. Gloria Swanson, Mary Pickford and Norma Talmadge are all short—none of them being over five feet three inches. Janet Gaynor and Pauline Garon are petite. Dolores Del Rio is five feet two inches in height. Then there's Sally O'Neil and Alice White among other of the screen's little-girl contingent.

Of course, exceptions are to be found. Gertrude Astor and Marie Prevost aren't in the "little" class. Greta Garbo, Margaret Livingston, Jacqueline Logan, Dorothy Dwan and Anna Q. Nilsson average about five feet five inches in height.

WALES TO USE PLANE FOR MAKING VISITS

LONDON, April 30.—(AP.)—The London Mail today says that the Prince of Wales has decided to use an airplane in filling his numerous engagements. A special fast army two-seater plane has been allotted for his use at Northolt aerodrome near Harrow. The Prince holds the rank of group captain in the Royal Air Force and has had considerable experience in flying. He is not qualified to act as a pilot but the paper says that as he is famous for doing things for himself, it is unlikely that he will be content to use the plane without learning to fly it.

STAGE OFFERS VARIETY

Nikita Balieff and his famous "Chauve Souris" are to begin a week's engagement in the Alvin tonight. The "Chauve Souris" is not a play, vaudeville nor revue. Instead it is a little of everything.

"Wings," the aviation drama of the movies, goes into its fourth week this afternoon's showing at the Nixon. Every indication is for another capacity week. It has been long since a picture has made such a successful run in Pittsburgh.

John Thorne, who appeared with the George Sharp Players last summer, rejoins the company to play an important role in "Tommy," opening in the Pitt tonight.

Ned Wayburn's Buds, a dance revue, heads the Keith-Albee vaudeville in the Davis this week. Vera Reynolds and Kenneth Thomson are on the screen in "Almost Human."

"The Noose," by Willard Mack, will be presented by the George Sharp Players in the Pitt the week of May 7. Ralph Morgan, leading man, and Gus Forbes appeared in the road company of "The Noose," and will play the same roles in the Pitt next week. Anne Forrest will play the leading feminine role.

"The King of Kings," the picture drama dealing with the last two years of the life of Christ, will be presented in the Alvin the week of May 14. Among the principals are H. B. Warner, Dorothy Cumming, Ernest Torrence, Joseph Shildkraut and Jacqueline Logan.

PATRICIA PITT'S COMMENT ON SOCIAL HAPPENINGS

Plans for May Weddings Revived as Snow Melts

NOW that the snow has melted and the breezes have become warmer and more gentle, it looks as though spring were going to "attend" the May weddings after all, doesn't it? Perhaps spring will be particularly sunny during May to make up for her almost inexcusably bad conduct during April.

And there are going to be some exceptionally interesting weddings in May, too, you know. About the first one will be that which will unite two old Pittsburgh families, Martha Lewis MacCord, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Charles MacCord, of the Cathedral Mansions, will marry, you'll recall, Biddle Arthurs, Jr., son of the Biddle Arthurs, on Wednesday, May 9. The ceremony will take place that evening at 7 o'clock in the First Baptist Church.

Martha will have as her matron of honor Mrs. William Whigham, Jr., of Clairton, the former Elizabeth Wolverton Arthurs, sister of the prospective bridegroom. And Marjorie Easton, now of New York, formerly of this city, will be maid of honor. There'll be just one bridesmaid, Kathryn Brennan, of this city.

William Whigman, Jr., will be his brother-in-law's best man, and the ushers will be Clifford G. Dunnells, of Chicago, Martha's cousin; Dr. Theodore Redman, Joseph F. Kuntz, Jr., Frederick B. Westervelt and A. Lyle Linderman, all of Pittsburgh; B. W. Cummings III, of Pottsville, and James Verner, of Springdale.

The rehearsal for the wedding will be held the evening of Tuesday, May 8, at 8:30 o'clock in the church. Following it will be a supper dance in the Twentieth Century Club to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Biddle Arthurs.

Of course there will be a number of entertainments given before the rehearsal party. Kathryn Brennan will give a bridge in her home Saturday afternoon, I understand. And Marjorie Easton will entertain at a bridge tea shortly before the wedding day.

A late May wedding date has just been announced. Emilie Wright, daughter of Arthur Wright, of New York and Utica, has named May 21 for her marriage to Graham Johnston, son of the Norwood Johnstons, of Shady avenue. The wedding will be performed in the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, New York.

Mr. Johnston has just returned from visiting his parents, who are, as you know, spending the winter and a bit of the spring, too, in the popular North Carolina resort, Pinehurst.

During the next two months sports will come into their own again up north. On May 3 to 5 there will be an event that will interest many of the "400"—the Pittsburgh Kennel Club dog show.

And on June 22 and 23 the third annual women's invitation two-day medal tournament will attract many a Pittsburgh girl and woman to the Allegheny Country Club at Sewickley, I can prophesy with assurance.

Although Mrs. Andrew Carnegie no longer lives in the city, she has many friends here who are interested in her activities and travels. She sailed recently, I hear, for Scotland.

Pittsburgh will soon have two more persons added to the attractive young married set. For the Cabell Woodwards, of Baltimore, are planning to come here to live, we hear. Just at present the Woodwards are being much entertained with farewell parties in their home city, where they are most popular.

The former Frances Graham, who is now Mrs. Alexander McNaughton Luke, of Tarrytown, N. Y., is going to be the only attendant at the wedding of Mary Purnell Ingram, daughter of the James E. Ingrams, of Wayne, Pa., and Robert Andrews McKean, Jr., son of the Robert A. McKeans, of this city, I hear. The ceremony is set for June 14 at 4:30 o'clock in the Washington Memorial Chapel at Valley Forge with the Rev. W. Herbert Burk officiating. Raymond Ford Moreland, of Pittsburgh, is to be best man and the ushers will include William Pollock, of Youngstown, and Stewart McClintic, of this city.

The wedding will be a small one with just the families and a few friends there, and later a small reception will be given at the house. The young McKeans expect to live in Pottstown, Pa., until next spring.

FLIERS CHEERED WILDLY

THOUSANDS JAM STREETS, CITY BEDECKED

floor of the Ritz-Carlton Hotel. Von Huenefeld, monocle screwed in his eye, wore a blue serge suit and a German army cap; Koehl was attired in a plain blue business suit and a dark felt hat while Fitzmaurice wore the uniform of the flying corps of the Irish Free State.

Dense throngs had congregated outside the hotel, and when the fliers emerged cheer after cheer rocked the district. The fliers seemed stunned by the reception, but they bowed and smiled as they entered their automobile.

Showers of paper came hurtling down from the windows of hotels and skyscrapers in the vicinity. Men, women and girls poked their heads out of the windows and cheered. Office routine was completely disrupted.

Slowly the procession started westward on Forty-sixth street to the accompaniment of deafening cheers. Passing Broadway the cheering grew in volume and could be heard fully a mile away.

At 11 o'clock the procession arrived at Pier 84, North River, where the municipal steamer, the Macom, gaily decorated with flags, was waiting to receive the fliers for a trip down the harbor between a lane of craft to the Statue of Liberty.

SHIP SIRENS SHRIEK

When the fliers were sighted at the pier the vessels, crowded with people, released sirens and whistles and the din became terrific. Within 30 feet of the Macom lay the Hamburg-American liner Deutschland, loaded with Germans. Hats were thrown in the air, people danced on the deck and the wildest excitement ensued.

A band aboard the Deutschland struck up the German national anthem. Capt. Koehl and Baron von Huenefeld stood at attention. This was followed by lively Irish tunes played by the fire department band, which was on board the Macom.

Crowds waved handkerchiefs and cheered from the giant liner Leviathan which was at anchor a few hundred yards up the harbor.

As the Macom steamed down the harbor there was an incessant tooting of horns and shrieking of sirens.

It began to drizzle slightly but this failed to dampen the ardor of the celebration.

Two coast guard cutters, one on each side, escorted the Macom. The three fliers stood in the pilot house and surveyed the scene in amazement. Capt. Koehl's chubby face wore a broad grin. Fitzmaurice's wide Irish face radiated happiness as he waved in answer to the cheers.

"Wunderbar, Wunderbar," exclaimed the baron, fingering his monocle.

Scores of river craft, including two steam yachts, excursion boats and police launches, took part in the marine parade. The Macom slowly made its way to the Statue of Liberty, circled it and then returned northward, landing at the Battery at exactly noon.

At the Battery a column of 10,000 soldiers and sailors were stationed. They immediately began a march northward to the City Hall, followed by the fliers and the automobile of the reception committee and the press.

CROWDS MASS STREETS

Packed on both sides of lower Broadway were tremendous crowds of people, held back by lines of police. Policemen were stationed five feet apart for blocks.

It was a triumphal march up Broadway. The bands played sprightly tunes and the cheering was terrific.

Rain began to fall more heavily. Newspapers were quickly used as improvised umbrellas.

Confetti and strips of paper were showered down on the fliers from windows of the skyscrapers along Broadway. Von Huenefeld, Koehl and Fitzmaurice had to stand up and wave time and again in response to the cheering.

At City Hall a welcome as warm and perhaps meaning a great deal more awaited two of the fliers. There Mrs. Elfriede Koehl, wife of Capt. Koehl, and Mrs. Viola Fitzmaurice, wife of the Irish flier, and his 7-year-old daughter, Patricia, were waiting in the speakers' stand.

A grandstand seating some 5,000 persons had been erected for the occasion. Every seat was taken and the rain did not seem to drive anybodoy away.

"Where's Daddy—when's Daddy coming?" Patricia continually asked her mother.

The mother did not answer. There were tears in her eyes.

"I only want to see my man," said Mrs. Koehl, a smart-looking, bobbed-haired woman. She was greatly excited.

BAND GETS OVATION

The City Hall crowd gave the "Fighting Sixty-ninth" Irish National Guard Regiment Band a big cheer as it passed the reviewing stand. The detachment had their hats beribboned with green and their band played "The Wearing of the Green." The Columbia University Band, in bright blue uniforms, also made a picturesque showing.

Presently the fliers themselves came into sight at the City Hall—at 12:45—and the cheering became deafening. With the luck of the Irish, not to forget the Germans, the rain began to let up at exactly this minute. Pieces of paper were floating about in the air.

High up in big buildings, such as the Woolworth, faces that resembled mere specks could be seen peering down into the plaza. Scores of persons were perilously parked on cornices of the old federal building and other vantage points.

Mrs. Koehl and Mrs. Fitzmaurice became greatly excited as their husbands came into sight with the mob cheering wildly. Neither woman could speak. Mrs. Fitzmaurice wiped her eyes with her handkerchief.

The band struck up the "Star-Spangled Banner."

As the fliers' car came directly in front of the speakers' stand, Koehl and Fitzmaurice recognized their wives and their faces lit up. They leaped out and, running the gantlet of handshaking by men and women who blocked their path, they rushed to their wives.

Fitzmaurice and his wife embraced. Mrs. Fitzmaurice, a tear sliding down her cheek gave her husband a hug and a kiss.

DAUGHTER HUGS FITZ

Patricia was right behind her. She kissed daddy several times and daddy bounced her up and down, just as he perhaps had often done before.

Mr. and Mrs. Koehl had a very affectionate meeting, too.

The baron, a bachelor, surveyed the scene happily. Everybody knew him because of his monocle and he seemed immensely popular.

Mrs. Koehl, who is 26, is the same square, wholesome type as her husband. Her face and hands are deeply tanned, for she is a typical German woman of the outdoors. Mrs. Fitzmaurice is tall, slender and rather fragile looking.

"If he makes any more flights like this, I want to fly with him," remarked Mrs. Koehl. "I love to fly."

Mrs. Fitzmaurice frankly admitted that her husband's flight worried her.

And then, amid a salvo of handclapping, the popular Mayor Walker came to the rostrum and addressed the first successful east-to-west Atlantic fliers.

"In making New York City your destination," said Mayor Walker, "you have made a gesture bringing closer together Germany, Ireland and the United States."

Then, Maj. Gen. Haskell, speaking for Gov. Al Smith, who is ill in his hotel suite, presented the fliers with the medal of honor in behalf of New York state.

Hector Fuller of the Mayor's committee bestowed the scroll of the City of New York on the fliers.

Baron Von Huenefeld then stepped to the rostrum.

"We are very thankful for the wonderful reception given us in America," he said in clear, excellent English. "We will always remember our visit to this city, and we shall not forget that the first successful flight across the Atlantic was made by an American. I bring you greetings of Germany to America."

The baron was warmly applauded.

Capt. Koehl then stepped forward, a smile on his rugged, bronzed face.

"We thank you very much for this magnificent reception," he said simply. "It is hard for me to say it in English. But I want to thank you very much from the bottom of my heart."

Maj. Fitzmaurice, his Irish smile infectious, came forward. The photographers punctuated his speech with a barrage of flashlights.

"This reception has been overwhelming," declared Fitzmaurice. "I have never seen such a sight before. It is so much!

"We are glad that our trans-Atlantic flight has not been regarded as a stunt but rather as a useful contribution to the progress of aviation. And such we like to regard it as.

"As an Irishman I feel absolutely at home in your city. My German comrades feel equally at home and between us we feel that we own the city. Besides assisting in the development of aviation we hope our flight will further cement the bond of good will between America and our countries."

Cheers greeted his remarks. The bands then struck up the German and Irish anthems.

Motion picture camera men swarmed around the fliers, asking Koehl and Fitzmaurice to pose with their wives. Somewhat bashfully they did.

"Kiss," commander the photographers to Mr. and Mrs. Koehl and Mr. and Mrs. Fitzmaurice. They obeyed.

Mrs. Koehl was quite excited.

Suddenly, and without warning, she leaned over and kissed the good-looking Mayor Walker.

GREAT JOB—WALKER

Mrs. Koehl is very good-looking herself and the Mayor made local history by blushing a deep crimson.

Koehl seemed to enjoy his discomfiture.

The crowd liked this incident and there were calls: "Do it again!"

Mayor Jimmy said:

"I didn't know this went with the job. It's a great racket."

The triumphal procession then started uptown, preceded by the troops. Mrs. Fitzmaurice and Mrs. Koehl got in one of the automobiles. Their car was surrounded by people eager to shake their hands. The ladies shook hands right and left and so did little Patricia Fitzmaurice. She particularly liked to shake hands with the mounted policemen.

The fliers placed a wreath of "Eternal Light" at Fifth avenue and Twenty-fourth street in memory of the soldiers and sailors who made the supreme sacrifice in the World War. There they reviewed the troops, marking the end of their spectacular reception.

GRADUATES HEAR SERMONS

The Rev. Dr. James D. Rankin, professor of systematic theology of Pittsburgh (United Presbyterian) Theological Seminary, delivered the baccalaureate sermon to the one hundred and third graduating class of the seminary last night in the First Church, North avenue and Wood street, Wilkinsburg. He characterized the Christian minister as "an ambassador of the King of Kings."

The First and Second churches of Wilkinsburg participated in the services, the Rev. Drs. F. R. Elder and T. D. Edgar, pastors, assisting Dr. Rankin. Dr. Rankin preached on the dignity, the message, and the power of the Christian ministry.

The one hundred and third annual commencement exercises will be held Thursday night in the First Church, North Side, the Rev. Dr. James I. Vance, of Nashville, Tenn., delivering the commencement address.

A communion service was held yesterday for graduates and faculty. The Rev. Dr. W. R. Wilson, professor of pastoral theology and homiletics.

In his address last night, Dr. Rankin said in part:

"The dignity of an ambassador is measured by the rank of the government he represents, the rank of the government to which he is sent and the importance of the mission on which he goes. The Christian minister is an ambassador of the King of Kings. He is sent to a lost world to secure its salvation. No other calling among men can claim such dignity as this. To be the personal representative of Jesus Christ is an honor that any king might covet."

"Too many separate church bodies exist in America," the Rev. Dr. James A. Kelso, president of Western Presbyterian Theological Seminary, said last night in his baccalaureate sermon to the institution's graduating class in Watson Memorial Church, Perrysville avenue.

The exercises this week will attend the graduating of 13 seniors and the conferring of degrees of master of sacred theology upon seven others for post graduate work. The one hundred and first commencement exercises will be held Thursday night in the First Church, Sixth avenue. The address will be delivered by the Rev. Dr. J. R. P. Sclater, pastor of Old St. Andrew's Church, Toronto, Canada.

Members of the faculty and the graduating class participated in the senior communion service held yesterday in Swift Hall, at the seminary. The Rev. Dr. C. E. Culley, professor of Hebrew, officiated.

Dr. Kelso's subject last night was "The Unity of the Church." He said, in part:

"In America, there are too many church bodies. It is impossible to justify the existence of nine different kinds of Presbyterians, 14 of Baptists, 15 of Methodists and 18 of Lutherans. There are little towns that have as many as nine different denominations represented by small churches. The roots of these differences lie in the old lands of Europe and have no justification on American soil."

MAXINE IN PLOT, DEMPSEY VIEW

NEW YORK, April 30.—(INS.)—Jack Dempsey, in Buffalo today with his second wife, Estelle Taylor, apparently is unruffled by the possibility of a suit to set aside a divorce from his first wife.

The former world champion's attorney, Richard J. Mackey, today quoted Dempsey as saying:

"I don't know whether this girl who calls herself Maxine Gates Dempsey is my first wife or not. She may be, and then again she may not be. But whoever she is, I don't believe the lady is acting on her own responsibility."

Before leaving here, Dempsey said he believed the suit had been inspired by an enemy in order to harass him. He added:

"If the lady really is my first wife, she certainly can have nothing to say against me."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

by Royal S. Copeland M.D.
U.S. Senator from New York

Fluttering Pulse Common; It Is a Warning Only

THERE are two forms of ailments: The first is "organic disease." That is, there is actual change in the tissues, something that can be seen or felt.

DR.COPELAND

The second form we know as "functional disease," or as a functional derangement. There is no change in the tissues, but the function of the organ or part is disturbed. It does not operate as it should.

As applied to the heart, for instance, this is a disturbnce in action that is not founded on actual disease. At least all the parts of the heart are normal in structure and appearance.

There are a number of these so-called functional disturbances of the heart. The chief ones are "palpitation," and "intermittent" or "irregular" heartbeat.

In palpitation there is a feeling of "fluttering" in the chest. The patient is conscious of his heart's action, as, of course, he is not in health.

Many a person on occasions, if he has the bad habit of feeling his own pulse, will find it irregular. That is, there will be three or four rapid beats and then two or three slow ones.

In other instances, every once in a while the heart seems to miss a beat, as if the heart has stopped for a moment.

Neurasthenics may have these symptoms. Debilitated persons also present them. Overworked and worried persons suffer this way sometimes.

Excessive smoking, tea or coffee drinking, or intestinal poisoning are usually responsible for such annoying symptoms. Cut down on tobacco and the beverages and the trouble will usually vanish.

Constipation or gastric disturbances must be overcome. If the patient is overworking, mentally or physically, a short respite will restore the heart to its normal action.

Overeating, crowding the stomach with food, may be responsible for one of these functional disturbances. Since most persons are amazingly careless in their eating habits, the wonder is that such derangements are not vastly more common.

Taking an enema and going without food for a day will do much to restore normal conditions. There is nothing to be worried over—the symptoms is merely a warning to correct the manner of living. In this sense, it is important, but so far as life is concerned the symptom is of no consequence.

A visit to your doctor and a survey of your general condition are the right steps in such a case.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Tuesday, May 1

His hatred and his vicious will combine as power to strike and kill—Burns.

THIS day's astral influences are of a conflicting nature and may react on the conduct in contradictory actions and emotions. It would be wise to hold to the mood of calmness and stability, and to postpone the inclination to rash and impetuous moves and commotion. Well governed, the opportunity for change may be turned to advantage.

Those whose birthday it is are under a year of conflicting forces. There should be opportunity for an important change which may redound to the advantage if calm judgment and well-governed action be maintained. Impulse and turbulence might prove hazardous.

A child born on this day may be restless and fond of change, but may have an original and inventive mind with a profound insight which may stabilize its fortunes.

Love's Embers

Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife" By Adele Garrison

Madge Tells the Great Producer of Eleanor Lincoln's Interest in His Son, Noel

WHAT potency was there in Eleanor Lincoln's name to evoke such a storm of emotion as I had seen mirrored in Phillip Veritzen's eyes when I had told him that the young mistress of The Larches would be the best ally he could enlist for his plan of separating Mary Harrison and his son Noel?

For a second the memory of that look made me forget that he had asked me what I meant by my comment, and when I did remember I delayed perceptibly in answering. For whatever else that look had held, anger was one of its components, and for many reasons, the chief of which was the danger of hurting Mary's prospects, I did not wish to incur the great producer's wrath.

But I knew that my answer could not be held off indefinitely, so inwardly quaking, but with outward nonchalance, I made my answer.

"I mean just what I said. Haven't you noticed Miss Lincoln's decided penchant for your son? But, no, you haven't been down here long enough. However, it is something patent to all the rest of us who have noticed the young woman's behavior. But she only expresses what all the rest of us feel. I warn you that every woman at the farm from Mother Graham to Katie is in love with Noel."

I was glad to see his face overspread with a glow of parental pride. It made him seem more a human being than a mystical, merciless agent of some purpose hidden from me.

"That is very pleasant to hear," he said, "for from even my limited acquaintance with the residents of the farmhouse, a man who can gain the interest of any one of them is to be envied."

I spread my hands in an exaggerated gesture of acknowledgment.

"'Praise from Sir Hubert,'" I quoted, feeling that a note of lightness was the only one possible to take in this queerest of colloquies. But he ignored the gibe, went back to the statement which had so startled him.

"So you really think Miss Lincoln is interested in Noel?" he asked earnestly.

"That is a mild way of putting it," I laughed. "Of course I do not know how lasting or how serious her feeling will be, but in Mary's expressive language, our beautiful young neighbor appears to be 'cuckoo' on the question."

Again I saw that swift flash of emotion in his eyes. I wondered if I read it aright, or if it were my imagination which construed it as composed of mingled pleasure at my theory and resentment at so cavalier a reference to the young woman of whose importance he appeared to have so exaggerated an idea.

His voice, however, was devoid of anything save lazy amusement.

"That is—interesting, if true," he said, smiling at me. "And, now that I am assured of your co-operation, I am going to ask your forgiveness for rudeness. I have an appointment in an hour, and——I believe you said Mary Harrison wished to see me?"

I rose at once, wondering as I did so, just what grounds he had for his belief that I would help him separate Mary and Noel. Surely, I had made him no definite promise,

"I will tell her immediately that you are here," I said, then at the door turned with a sudden impulse, went swiftly up to him and put my hand upon his arm.

"Please—be compassionate!" I whispered. "Don't judge her too harshly!"

SMART people do not tell all they know or show all they've got!

The more you see of life, the more you realize you "never can tell!"

One can never judge the ones they meet by their appearances.

The shabby man you feel sorry for who is sunning himself on a park bench may be more content than he was years ago when he squandered a fortune and was a fool for false friends!

Many a clever grafter who high hats around wearing two armloads of diamond bracelets may end up in life with soap suds sparkling where the sparklers are now parked!

There is a vast difference between sudden flash and solid fact.

Many a dame with millions in her own right doesn't flash a diamond!

Some girls tell of all the rich men they could have married, but another never mentions that she has had a couple of rich husbands and both paying big alimony!

Many waiters who take an order have seen more of the world than have those they serve!

Crooks can put on a lot of class; I have found that the more important people are the less they seek to impress people.

The reason most great men protect themselves with an army of hardboiled secretaries is because they are so simple and nice, when you do get to them, they would be fearfully imposed upon if they were not thus protected.

FOR THE LOVELORN

Mike and Ike

DEAR MISS GALE!

We are two young men and are constant readers of your column. We are men that don't believe in kissing, drinking or petting. We are very lonesome for we cannot find our type of girls. Most of the girls around here drink and smoke. Is there anyway to get in touch with MAJO? We are 22 years of age.

MIKE AND IKE.

I am sorry, but my correspondents can communicate with each other only through this department.

How?

DEAR MISS GALE!

I have enjoyed reading your column for some time. Now I come to you for advice. I am in love with a boy my own age. I am 15. You may think I'm foolish, but he is always in my thoughts. Sometimes he seems to be crazy about me and the next minute he is so indifferent. How may I change his indifferent attitude?

HOW?

Naturally, you are years too young to be thinking of love. Be content with such friendship as the boy feels he can give you, my dear. He also is far too young to be "crazy about" any girl.

RUSH SHIPS TO TAME EGYPT

MEN-O'-WAR GO TO NIP AFFRONT TO BRITISH

LONDON, April 30.—(AP.)—Several British warships and cruisers sailed this morning from Malta for Egypt in connection with an Anglo-Egyptian crisis which revolves around the Egyptian public assemblies bill.

An ultimatum demanding the withdrawal of the bill within three days was handed the Egyptian government last night by the British.

The situation today was grave and fraught with serious possibilities, although in official circles in London it was thought the difficulties were not insurmountable and the sky might clear suddenly. There was no effort, however, to minimize the seriousness of the crisis.

The British government had previously protested against the assemblies bill objecting to two provisions—one forbidding the police to take any steps against disorder in public assemblies except at the request of the organizers of the meeting or in event that grave disorders actually occurred, and the other prescribing heavy fines for policemen violating the foregoing provision.

The public assemblies bill was passed by the Egyptian chamber after Egypt rejected the proposed Anglo-Egyptian treaty. Great Britain immediately sent a firm note of protest saying the bill endangered foreigners and challenged the British declaration of 1922 by which, among other things, Great Britain reserved the right to protect foreign residents of Egypt.

How a demand for the withdrawal of the bill would be met by Egypt was uncertain, but it was believed that the Egyptian government would try to gain time by postponing discussion of the bill, which was scheduled to come before the Senate today. It was thought likely an educational bill would be placed on the Senate's agenda instead.

Don't Let Them Call You Pimply Face!

You fellows who go around with your face blotched with pimples and bad looking eruptions have no one but yourself to blame if you're constantly humiliated and shunned.

You can clear up your skin and leave it free from roughness and unsightly eruptions in short order if you will only give that wonderful skin remedy—Peterson's Ointment—a chance to do its stuff.

Oftentimes you only need to use a few applications before pimples completely go and if you're suffering from eczema, acne or rashes this condition will go almost as quick.

One sufferer from eczema, a victim for years, says he is almost completely cured after using only one-half a box.

Get a box for only 35 cents from any good druggist—and start today to acquire a clean, clear, healthy skin that you'll always be proud of.

MARTIN B. MADDEN

Pittsburgh health officials, commenting today on the statement of Gov. John S. Fisher that last year was the greatest in the state's history in lowering infant mortality and reducing typhoid, diphtheria and smallpox cases, verified the report for Pittsburgh in all respects except that regarding diphtheria. The report was made in connection with "Child Health Day," which is to be observed throughout the state tomorrow.

Pittsburgh enjoyed better health during 1927 than in any previous year, records in the office of Dr. R. G. Burns, director of the Department of Public Health, revealed. General mortality last year was only 31.51 as against 35.09 the year before.

Diphtheria was more prevalent last fall and the early part of this year than ordinarily, Dr. Burns said, and there has been a slight increase in the mortality so far this year, but with pleasant weather due, indications are that the death rate will be lowered to last year's record before the end of 1928.

There were 75 fewer pneumonia cases during 1927, compared with 1926, Dr. Burns pointed out, and the lowest point ever reached in typhoid cases was recorded. Infant mortality also reached a new low record with approximately 72 deaths per thousand births, and there were no deaths from smallpox reported during the year.

Tiring of Show, Snake Goes For 'Walk'

International News Service.

NEW YORK, April 30.—An eight-foot boa constrictor, tiring of the hum-drum life of a sideshow, is at large on Coney Island today. Although still young, the reptile is big enough to squeeze a person to death.

The snake is believed to be on the beach. It fled its glass cage during a performance.

Mme. Belle Bonita, owner of the boa constrictor, was unperturbed by its escape.

"It just went out for a walk," she explained.

Blind Cannibal King Who Claimed to Raise the Dead. Charm Didn't Work

What Has Gone Before.

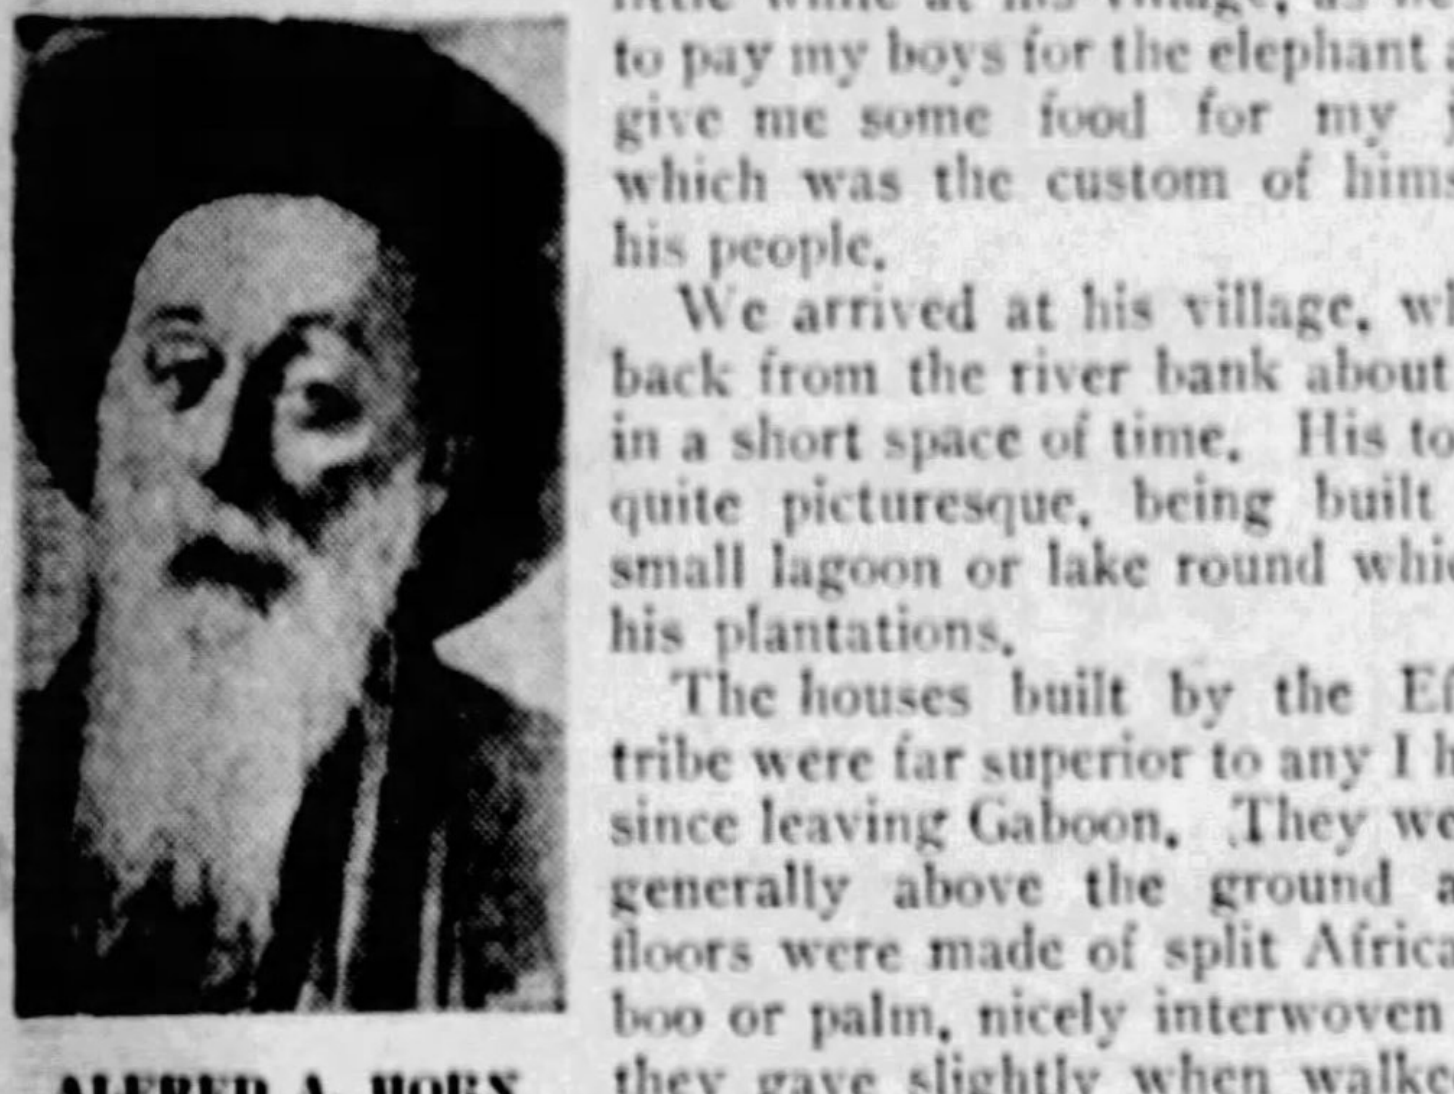
Alfred Aloysius Horn, an ivory coast trader, tells of his adventures in darkest Africa 50 years ago. Made a member of a secret native society, the only white man so honored, he meets Izaga, a white goddess, and discovers that she is really Nina T——, daughter of an English aristocrat. He sees in the josh house, presided over by the goddess, a beautiful ruby which he schemes to take and sell, using the proceeds for her benefit. He details the killing of a famous bull elephant, known as the Rascal of All Elephants; a powerful native chief becomes his friend.

Rum Lubricates Native Good Will

By ALFRED ALOYSIUS HORN
Edited by ETHELREDA LEWIS

CHAPTER XVI.

I AROSE early, the conjo was still in progress and Efanginango rose at the same time. I told the old chief that I wished to reach Eninga Lake before sundown that day, as I had business to attend to there. He said he would like me to stay a little while at his village, as he wished to pay my boys for the elephant and also give me some food for my journey, which was the custom of himself and his people.



ALFRED A. HORN

We arrived at his village, which lay back from the river bank about a mile, in a short space of time. His town was quite picturesque, being built near a small lagoon or lake round which were his plantations.

The houses built by the Efinangos tribe were far superior to any I had seen since leaving Gaboon. They were built generally above the ground and the floors were made of split African bamboo or palm, nicely interwoven so that they gave slightly when walked upon. In many of these houses the women were weaving mats of many designs and were well designed and pretty.

Here Efinango gave me some specially prepared palm wine which was really a beautiful and refreshing drink and with this I was served with sweet pudding made of stamped monkey or peanuts mixed with ripe bananas and boiled like a sailor's duff, but instead of being tied in linen it was wrapped in green banana leaves and to me tasted delicious.

"He Raised the Dead"

Before parting the chief begged me to call on him when passing and I could always count on his friendship and his people's. After a hearty handshake I bade the old man adieu and was soon well away to Lake Eninga.

I thoroughly enjoyed my visit to this village. I arrived at Carl Worman and Cos about midday and had a hearty welcome from Herr Schiff and his new assistant, Herr Boome. We all had hearty laughs at the many comical incidents that occurred during my trip. Especially my boy's trip through the whale rock.

As I wanted to finish my journey to Eninga, I promised Herr Schiff an early visit when this was over. Eninga was reached about one hour after leaving my best friends. And I had quite a good reception from the Eninga boys and their blind king.

Here, I also met Nina's father-in-law, who claimed to be doing wonders for the people. He had raised a dead man to life and had also found a charm which if worn round the neck like a necklace would prevent anyone being killed by gunshot or by a bullet fired from a gun.

He was very friendly with the Eninga king and years before that he and some of his ilk had persuaded the chief to have his eyes put out. The old king was stone blind and believed he could transport his spirit to any part of the earth.

He was always surrounded by numerous clients, some of whom were suffering from numerous kinds of ailments.

Blind King's Powers

Some of these people were medically attended to by the witch doctor previously mentioned whilst others were supposed to be bewitched.

For small or large payments the King of Eninga agreed to transfer the malady of the patient to the body of the man or woman who had bewitched them. This he believed he could do, as being blind, he could talk to the spirits by day as well as by night. The natives believed him implicity as he was known to have effected some marvelous cures which could not be treated by the famous witch doctor.

I had not much business to do at Eninga so I did not stay there long. It is a beautiful lake and as I have previously mentioned joined Eliwa Mpolo, etc. The water of these inland lakes is quite clear and all surrounded by groves and Impondis or plantations and as they are only a few miles distant from the trading stations the Eningas supply more than half the food required for these large trading stations.

Whilst the Eninga chief was busy chasing up witches, the crafty witch doctor, who was passionately fond of rum with which I supplied him liberally, kept incessantly telling me of his marvelous cures and charms. Under the influence of Bacchus he went fast asleep. That gave me a good chance to tell my boy Renchoro to go through his bag as I wanted to look at his stock in trade.

NOBILE'S MOTHER SHIP OFF FOR SPITZBERGEN

OSLO, Norway, April 30.—(AP.)—The steamer Citta Milano, mother-ship of the Nobile Polar expedition, sailed Sunday from Tromsoe, in Northern Norway, for Spitzbergen. It will serve as the base of the Italia, the dirigible in which Gen. Umberto Nobile plans to explore the Polar Regions.

PEEVED DANCERS WANT NEW MARATHON

Eddie Leonard, the East End plasterer, and Marianne Jacques, his 97-pound partner, who dragged along for 122 hours in the shuffle marathon that ended in a dead heat at Motor Square Garden Saturday, awoke today after much-needed sleep with dance in their eyes.

Eddie and Marianne immediately issued a challenge to the two couples that finished with them to carry on the dance. "Anytime," "any place, we want to finish this thing. We were only getting started when they called it off."

All three couples have offers to go into vaudeville and probably will accept. Cora Dean, of Homestead, who finished the grind with Albert Bonach, dance marathon champion, was "peeved" she said today, that the marathon had ended without a decision.

Cora intends to spend the next few days resting—"and (believe it or else) dancing for fun."

Tony Phillips, the Hill district barber, who carried the Amerita Club hopes with Teeny Neiman in his graceful arms, announced that the six-day stroll had not only failed to weaken him, but that he had gained two pounds. Tony is the meticulous young favorite who recognized conventions by falling into a dress suit on the last night of the event that was supposed to solve the mysteries of perpetual motion.

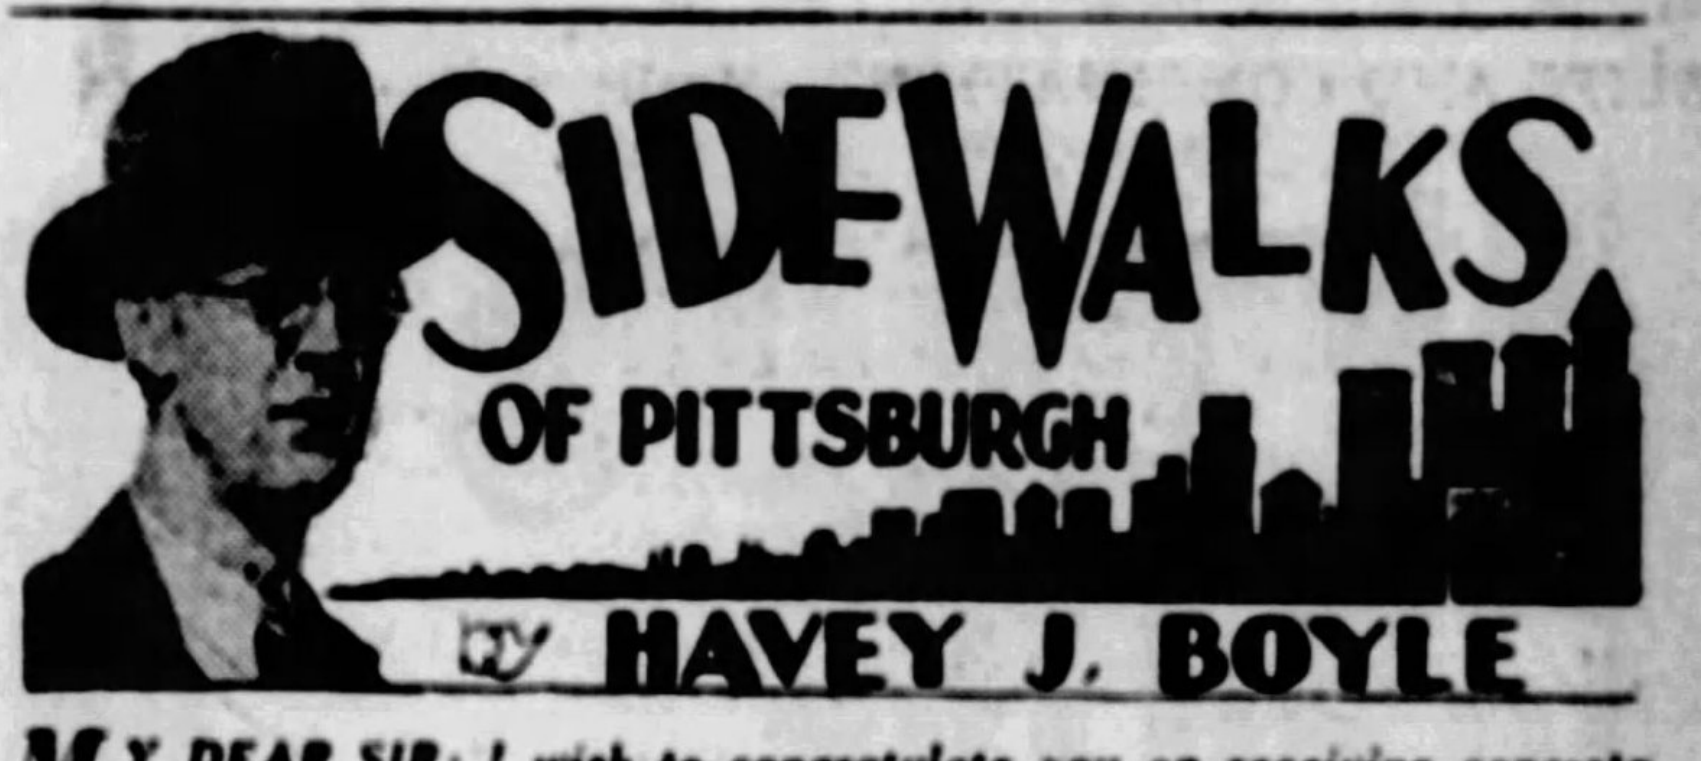
4 BOYS KILLED IN EXPLOSION

AKRON, O., April 30.—(AP.)—Tired of a marble game they had been playing behind a shed, five boys sought other diversions yesterday and turned to matches. One was struck and its flames exploded a 50-gallon drum of benzine which resulted in the burning to death of four of the boys and serious injury of the fifth.

The dead were: Frederick Wodtly, 13; Albert Carter, 10; Leman Carter, 5, and Charles Carter, 14. The Carters were brothers. Leslie Bush, the injured boy, is expected to recover.

18,000 Expected to Change Addresses Tomorrow

Tomorrow will be moving day and approximately 18,000 families are expected to move from one house to another in the Pittsburgh district. The figures are obtained from public service corporations who have been required to switch that many contracts for supplying gas and light and telephone service. The service departments of the concerns have been enlarged to meet the emergency.



SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

By HAVEY J. BOYLE

MY DEAR SIR: I wish to congratulate you on receiving concrete evidence of the sidewalks of Pittsburgh. As the streets of Pittsburgh are closely associated with the sidewalks a few of your admirers of Palm Beach avenue (the name belies the street) are sending you evidence of the streets of Pittsburgh. This one would interest both you and Director Lang of the Public Works Department. Come out after a rain. A team of horses, driven by a courageous driver, tried the venture. The horses had to be dug out with two by fours. A colored man bringing out a load of moving remarked: "I'se been all over No Man's Land in the war, but this do beat all." Yes, we pay taxes. Signed: Some of Your Best Wishers of Beechview.

THERE is no question that many streets and avenues in our village need attention. We are not economist enough to know why they are neglected, but our guess, after mingling with men in public life and talking with them on such subjects, leads to the conclusion that a lack of money is the reason.

CERTAINLY, it is not because officials like unsightly streets. The correspondent, who apparently has a kick coming, mentions Director Lang's name. It would be very difficult to find a more conscientious public official. If you canvass city hall you will discover that the director takes about 15 minutes for lunch and at a lunch table where shop talk is barred he is consistently fined a cigar or so for talking about city improvements.

FOR instance, one of the worst stretches of road in the city, and one that brings swear words from every un-Christian motorist who travels over it, is being repaired now, but there is money enough only to extend the improvement to Cape May avenue. Getting the money for this is within reach, perhaps, but then taxation, always a great worry to us all, would become a bigger one. Running a city is not all peaches and cream.

SOME encouragement is offered by a boyish reader, Michael Joseph Chovaner, Jr., who happens to be on our side in the use of the word caption, an alleged error which ruined a whole day for an irate reader who had at us with a large paddle. In the sweet words of Maj. Bowes, the radio announcer in New York, who drips honey with every syllable: "Thank you, Joseph."

D'jever hear the major in one of his Sunday night radio orgies. We always think the major is about to pat our little curls and tell us that if we remain real goody-goody Santa Claus will be around pretty soon.

THE mail was enhanced by a large crate of sauerkraut juice issued by A. E. Slessman, with whom we were a banquet guest the other evening. We got to discussing the effect of sauerkraut on art and it developed Mr. Slessman is an old pal of the former. He would send us kraut juice, he said, and he did.

WE MUST say our conversation began in all innocence and not once did we throw out a hint. We were different from the baseball reporter we used to know. One day he wrote that Babe Ruth knocked a home run against a fence carrying a sign advertising a popular make of watch. He named the make of the watch in his story. Well, it was the Ingersoll, if you must know. In a few days the watch people sent him a watch as a token of thanks. We saw the reporter shortly after he received the ticker. It was a half hour before game time. He could hardly wait for the game to begin, as he intended, if Ruth hit the fence again, to say the ball hit the Cadillac automobile sign. "How long has this been going on?" he asked in wild excitement.

The Greatest Adventure Story of Modern Times

pieces of magnetic iron strong enough to pick up a needle. These I kept. I had discovered his secret of being shot at without receiving any injury as the black lead or graphite ball split up into dust on being rammed home with a steel ramrod, and the bigger the charge of powder you put behind the dust the more it pulverized so that fired at a distance of 60 or 70 yards you stood no chance of being hurt.

I told Renchoro to get out a bottle of Old Dom which I used as a pick-me-up occasionally. He then roused the witch doctor and as he asked for a bracer I served him with a stiff tot of Domican. I did not see the Arch Scoundrel again till about sunrise and as the boys made ready for departure he drank rum and Old Dom until we bade him adieu.

He told me he was about to sell his charms to the Mpangus and begged me to advertise him as he knew I had great power with the Bimvool, who stood in great need of enlightenment. This of course I promised to do, for such a great benefactor of the human race as he. He felt elated with my answer. I could not say goodby to the blind king as he was asleep and supposed to be chasing witches.

We were soon clear of Eninga and well on our way to Adoninanonga. I told Renchoro all about the black lead trick and that he had better go over to the Pangwe town and see Matam, the son of the chief, and tell him all about it. And not to forget to tell him that this rascal was visiting them to sell his charms and make a display. At this we laughed, but I never thought this little joke would end so fatally for the raiser of the dead at Eninga.

Big Trade in Sight

Needless to say I had a great welcome from Sinclair and Gibson, his young assistant. Immediately on arrival I handed over my tin box with charts, state of trade in various places, etc., and the new passages I had found opposite Isogis and Ramb Ingogus towns.

I also told him that on invitation of the Panguis at Lake Azingo, large bodies of their friends, all rubber and ebony cutters, were fast settling round the lake so that the trade in the near future could be easily doubled. In fact, there was one good-sized village and as this trade would all come to Lake Azingo, we would be badly in need of a small tug or steam launch of small draught, powerful and built to burn wood.

Such a boat had been ordered, but had now become a real necessity. This and other business information I had brought with me was joyously received by Sinclair, who urged me to take a couple of weeks holiday.

He congratulated me on my trip and confessed the knowledge I had imparted to him was new and certainly must be atended to at once. We had a revival supper and a sing song and the next day found the chief and his clerk busily engaged on the homeward mail.

About 6 o'clock that evening I received a visit from Matam who wanted me to come out at once as the Azinga witch doctor had appeared amongst them and was about to give them an exhibition before selling his charms. This I mentioned to Sinclair, who advised me to go by all means as the Mpangues of the Bimvool were by far our best customers and as I knew their language so well they were reluctant to sell their rubber and ivory to anyone else.

Sinclair had a great eye to business, but little knew what I had up my sleeve. I asked for a few presents for the chief and was told to take anything I wished and charge same to Trade Diplomacy. You know, he said, all is fair in trade, love and war. On arrival at the Bimvool town we went immediately to the grove, where ceremonies, dances, etc., took place.

Here I was greeted by the witch doctor of Azinga. He was waiting our arrival, as Matam was to fire the gun and my presence would add some charm to the scene. He was ready for the performance and I gave the old chief, who was Matam's father, a drink of old dom, then I drank, Matam drank and the witch doctor took a big gulp, which made him close one eye for a second. The old chief now lifted up his short spear and ordered Bimvool taba se, which means all sit down. This order was obeyed immediately.

Charm Fails

The witch doctor then stepped off the ground about 65 yards. He then handed the ball to Matam and told him to load, which he did, using the steel ramrod. The witch doctor then began waving his arms and making sounds as if talking to the spirits. He then said, "When I stretch both arms and look at you, mouth open fire." He now stretched out both arms, looked towards the Sky and Matam fired. The Rascal Witch Doctor made half a turn and fell dead. Matam had slipped a ball into the gun unseen.

Such a roar of laughter followed this incident. The old Chief called for Order and everything was quiet immediately, these cannibals have great respect for their old chiefs and obey them implicity.

"My children," he said, "you have seen today what a great Cuckverrot (talkative idiot) this man has been. He came here to show that he could not be shot by an Empangwe and ordered his own execution. I tell you no man's medicine or charm can stop a bullet fired by Ajunale-limba, a man with the twisted hair. Anjuna is the battle cry of the Mpangwes. Now tell his people who came with him to take this fool away and tell them not to come here with their charms but go elsewhere to people who are as great fools as themselves."

New Jersey on Bargain Counter

AT the time a good American farm could be bought for a pair of boots, late in the seventeenth century, the Province of New Jersey was offered for sale in England for the equivalent of $25,000.

JERRY The Epic of a Girl Who Had to Wait · by Elenore MEHERIN

Jerry Learns Stephanie's Grandfather Is Dead, But He Has Left a Will

IMAGINE the paltriness of buying just enough. They had never done this. Always an extra steak or half a chicken to slap on the pan for the unexpected guest.

This gypsy freedom was the very color of their existence. They would have to cut it out.

And as months went on?

"I'll make more," she decided and went with hostile demand to Erskine. He was a shrewd business man, and Jerry had proven valuable. Some nice jobs she had brought in.

"I planned on giving you $200 and commissions with the first of the year."

"I want it now—with the first of November—tomorrow!"

"How much do you want it now?"

"It's get it or quit!"

"All right, if you go down to Pasadena and take charge of the shop while Miss Watkins visits her mother. Just for a week. She's leaving Monday."

With no intuition of portentous events, Jerry agreed.

But the moment Stephanie heard, she grew silent. Her cheeks burned, and she followed Jerry about with hot, suspense-filled eyes.

"Suppose you want me to look up Grandpa Ste[illegible]e?"

Said Stephanie solemnly: "Do you suppose Marza would object?"

"She'd be afraid of losing you."

"Would she care that they found out about her?"

"Why should she? Stephen was the son and he loved her. No, she wouldn't care about that. I don't suppose they'd put it in the paper, do you?"

"Well," said Stephanie, with storming youngness, "if there's five or ten thousand dollars floating around waiting for me, I'd like to grab it! We can't keep on much longer—all of us depending on you. And as though a full-grown independent person 20 years old could be taken by long lost grandparents!

"Jerry, couldn't you nose around and give them the once-over? Cautiously. I'm going to do it myself as soon as I'm steady on these pins. Why don't you—oh, I get so vastly excited just thinking about it."

"All right—give me that medallion of yourself and Stephen and I'll bring you home the million!"

Jerry was three days in Pasadena—working 10 hours of each day before a letter from Stephanie urgently demanded news. What were they like—Stephen's father and mother? Was she a dear old lady with white hair—and he a gallant and handsome fellow, still brisk and magnetic?

"Please wire! Charge it to the telephone. I can't sleep nights wondering."

Jerry picked up the telephone book and glanced through the long pages of M's. It was there . . . Stephen Marsh, Wilshire boulevard.

And below this another listing—Marsh and O'Connor, attorneys, Van Orden building.

She became excited wondering which to visit—the home or the office. An attorney—she could frame up a case and consult him about it. Better than to try and get by servants in a home.

A little notice in the morning paper gave her a hunch—a law contest over stock sold as unassessable was later assessed. The holder refused to pay and took the matter to court.

She would go and consult Stephanie's grandfather on her rights as the holder of such imaginary stock.

At 2 o'clock this Wednesday afternoon in November Jerry opened the door of Stephen Marsh's office.

"I want to see Mr. Stephen Marsh," she told the girl.

The girl gave her a peculiar look, hesitated, then asked: "Is it about a legal matter?"

"Yes."

"Just be seated a moment." She took Jerry's card and a moment later was ushering her to a large substantially furnished room.

A man with a large red face, handsome eyes and thick black hair received her. He appeared not more than 50, and he bore not the faintest resemblance to Stephanie or to Stephanie's father.

CHAPTER LXV.

WITH Jerry's first glance at the large, black-haired man, a sharp uncertainty rifled her composure. He was impossibly young to be Stephanie's grandfather, and He was unmistakably Irish.

Her plan was merely to look up Stephen Marsh; learn his quality, report her findings, let Marza and Stephanie decide on the next move.

Before two minutes passed she perceived with a frightened disturbance that she was cornered. The man was alert, cool, knowing—like one who has the drop on another.

"Will you be seated, Miss King?" said he, putting her card on the desk and giving Jerry a quick survey. "You want advice on some legal matter? I'll be glad to help you."

"Are you Mr. Stephen Marsh?"

"I'm the partner of Mr. Marsh. I'm Lloyd O'Connor and now in charge of the office."

With a touch of indignation: "But I asked to see Mr. Marsh. My business is only with him."

"Then I'm sorry to inform you that Mr. Marsh is dead."

She turned shock-white and staring.

"He passed two weeks ago—to be exact, on October 19."

She was incredibly stunned and repeated vaguely: "Died two weeks ago—I'm sorry to have troubled you."

She did not know how pale she was nor guess the revealing shock in her eyes. All Stephanie's hopes blasted! And only two weeks too late.

Mr. O'Connor picked up Jerry's card, regarding it absently: "You don't wish to consult with me?"

"No. My business with Mr. Marsh was really personal. I'd prefer to call on Mrs. Marsh."

"Mrs. Marsh," the attorney offered, "died four years ago."

Again Jerry's face told blank dismay.

"Won't you be seated, Miss King? You say you wished to see Mr. Marsh on some personal business. All his affairs—legal and personal—are now in my hands. I have several matters of a most personal nature entrusted to me—perhaps the very matter of your interest."

"No," said she and remained standing, "my business is of no importance since Mr. Marsh is gone."

She had suddenly the conviction that this man with his large, animated face and handsome eyes had a clue to her purpose and was working on it.

"As a fact," he went on, "I've reason to know that Mr. Marsh was interested in a girl named 'Jerry.' It may be you."

"I'm afraid not."

"Miss King, is your mother's name Marza?"

Like lightning utterly unexpected . . . filling Jerry with violent apprehension. What had she precipitated? What would Marza say to this reopening of the old buried romance?

Mr. O'Connor had her card with the home address—Hyde street. In this he had all the clue he would need to ferret them out. If he wished, the whole thing would soon be in his hands. . . . Marza's identity and the existence of Stephanie.

She cast a hasty glance to the door.

Mr. O'Connor interrupted with an insistent: "I haven't the slightest wish to pry into your affairs, Miss King. But you came here to consult Mr. Marsh on a personal matter.

"If this business of yours should chance to be what I hope, you will do me and my late partner the very greatest service if you will but answer a few questions. If I am wrong in my hunch we will both soon find out and no one will be hurt.

"Am I right in supposing your mother's name Marza?"

"That is her name."

The man's eyes kindled and a look of triumph passed over his face.

"Have you any brothers or a sister?"

"Why should I answer your questions, Mr. O'Connor, when I don't know where they lead?"

(To be Continued Tomorrow.)

INJURIES WEAKEN CUB LINEUP

KARL DAVIS RESIGNS PITT BERTHS

SPORT COMMENT

Apparent Oversight Is Real Tribute in Case of Pie Traynor—Groh Makes Fine Start as Manager in South Atlantic Association. Sharkey Doped to Win Over Delaney in Bout Tonight.

WHAT may look like an oversight in spring size-ups of baseball players may in reality be a high tribute.

One diamond star of whom that is particularly true this year is Capt. Pie Traynor of the Pirates.

Pie Traynor

There isn't another man in the Pittsburgh lineup about whom there wasn't some speculation this spring.

The fans were asking themselves whether the Waner brothers would come up to last year's standards.

They were not sure about the goods being delivered by either Barnhart or Comorosky in the vacant outfield post.

They were waiting to be shown how Adams would fit in at second base and how he would look on the offense.

They were in doubt as to how Grantham would accept the shift back to first base and as to how his showing at bat and in the field would compare with that of last year.

And finally they wondered if Wright would take a new grip on himself or would continue his shortstop form of 1927, which left a whole lot to be desired.

BUT through it all you never heard a word about Traynor. There may have been a question in the minds of some fans relative to all the regular positions, but on no side was there any speculation about third base.

No higher compliment has ever been paid to any player in baseball, for it meant that the fans of the region were unanimously of the opinion, though they did not express it, that there was one player who was not to be worried about.

AS A combination of unequaled ability as a third baseman, clean living, hustling spirit and ideal disposition on a ball club, Pie is in a class of his own, and the failure of the fans even to mention Traynor or third base in the spring speculation spoke more for him than could be written in a thousand books. They knew simply that he would be at his post again, and that guaranteed everything. Nor has the Massachusetts marvel disappointed them. His fielding has been of its usual high grade in spite of a sore throwing arm and a stiff neck, and in his last eight games he has batted above a .400 average. Pie is about as reliable with the stick as he is sure-handed in the field. In the last five years, for instanc, he has struck out only 91 times all told, whereas such famous sluggers as Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig and Tony Lazzeri whiffed 89, 84 and 82 times, respectively, last season alone.

HEINIE GROH, who did some valuable utility duty to help the Corsairs win the pennant last year, is making a good start as a manager.

Heinie Groh

Groh is heading the Charlotte Club of the South Atlantic Association, and though he has not put his team in first place yet, he has it playing fine ball and is setting a smart pace himself for his players.

The former big league star of bottle-bat fame is not only getting his share of the hits, batting in sixth place in the Charlotte order, but his fielding is one of the league's daily features. In four straight games he accepted 24 chances at third base without a bobble, having four putouts and eight assists in one of these contests.

ALPHONSE THOMAS, Whitesox chucker, who holds the distinction of not having lost a game to St. Louis since he broke into the American Lague last year, hung up his ninth victory in succession over the Brownies last Saturday, but he had a close call and appeared beaten when the kind fates pulled him out. The Browns had a 6-to-3 lead on him at the end of the seventh inning, with Crowder looking like a sure winner. But in the first half of the eighth Thomas was lifted for a pinch hitter, Barnabe, who came through with a hit and before the side was retired the Sox had scored five runs against Crowder, Nevers and Coffman. This put them in the lead again, when Lyons went to the slab in the last half of the eighth to finish the game, so Thomas got credit for the victory, as the Hose were leading when his successor mounted the slab.

THOMAS appears to have some sort of baseball charm over St. Louis. In his first game against that club, on April 17, last year, the Browns seemingly had him beaten at the end of the eighth, 5 to 3, but he was derricked for a pinch-hitter in the ninth, and the Sox batted in nine runs before they were retired. Lyons finished, but Thomas got the win.

ONCE MORE we face one of those heavyweight elimination things in New York tonight, and once more we have with us as one of the principals Silent Jack Sharkey, who has looked like the coming man, and has been made to look like the worst of false alarms, oftener than any of the big fellows of today.

Jack Sharkey

It is useless to try to figure Sharkey or to guess on the outcome of any of his fights, as he generally does just the opposite of what the form sheets indicate he will do.

But if he is ever going to win a fight, he ought to win tonight, and possibly by a knockout, as he will have a big advantage in weight, is reported really in condition at last, and may be aroused to new efforts by the realization that if he does not win this bout he will be eliminated from championship match consideration for all time.

That is one pleasing feature of tonight's scheduled 15-round battle in Madison Square Garden. It will mean the end of either Sharkey or Delaney as a subject of the championship talk that has become so wearisome.

THERE can be no complaint about the pitching of the Pirates when they are beaten by such a low score as 3-to-2, as in Cincinnati yesterday. It was simply a game in which Rixey happened to be a little bit better than Kremer and Miljus.

Just the same, Pittsburgh fans may argue with reason that

HE KNOWS HIS BONES, MUSCLES AND TENDONS

Bert Munhall, veteran trainer of the athletic squads at Carnegie Tech, is gaining new recognition these days as the mender of crippled parts of the Pirates' human machinery. So far this season he has attended Carmen Hill, Earl Smith, John Miljus, Glenn Wright, Johnny Gooch, Capt. Pie Traynor and others and has given them speedy relief for their various ailments. He is not a medico, but he knows how to get the kinks out of muscles, tendons and nerve centers by massaging, baking and devious other methods. Above he is seen working on Carnegie Tech athletes for two common injuries, vertebrae that have been knocked out of whack and knees forced out of plumb in the heat of combat.

WHAT'LL IT BE, MISTER?

No, not to drink, but to rid your system of that aching pain. Whatever it is you need, Bert knows how to mix it. And how he handles his liniments and arnicas and such! Just ask the Carnegie Tech ath-a-letes or Coach Wally Steffen about that. They all like Bert immensely and realize the big part he plays in the success of their outfits. One of these days, if his fame keeps spreading, Bert will be getting drafted away for service in the Olympic games and other high power events of international importance. And then what will the Tartans and Pirates do without him while he's gone?

ATHLETIC SYSTEM BUILDER QUITS

By HARRY KECK,
Sun-Telegraph Sports Editor.

"K. E." has quit Pitt.

Those familiar initials stand for Karl E. Davis, graduate athletic manager for 15 years and genial alumni secretary of the local institution, who has tendered his resignation to go into other business and has left with his family for a pleasure trip in the East before assuming his new duties.

Like a bolt from the blue, announcement was made last night that Davis, considered a fixture in the local, sectional and national athletic field, had given up both positions, effective at once.

The identity of his successor or successors was not revealed and further announcements will be awaited with interest. Meanwhile, general regret was expressed by persons who long have known Davis and his work that he should sever his connections with the local university.

At Pitt headquarters today it was said Davis' resignation had been offered to the board of trustees of the university two weeks ago and accepted at that time. It was said Don Harrison, director of athletics, would take over all the duties of the athletic office for the present and the appointment of Davis' successor as graduate manager would have to be acted upon by both the athletic council and the board of trustees.

LEADER IN FIELD

In the passing of Davis from its ranks of athletic leaders, Pitt is losing the services of one of the acknowledged best men in his line in the country. For efficiency, this writer never has seen his equal in a similar capacity.

Davis was a builder. He began with Pitt when the local institution's athletics were at their lowest ebb and built them up to the point where they outgrew their facilities, necessitating the erection of the new stadium, one of the finest athletic plants in the country.

Just how much of Pitt's success was due to the efforts of Davis never will be realized by anyone except those men who followed his work from the start. It was Davis who worked day and night to gain, step by step, the recognition that finally came to Pitt from the better established institutions, in an athletic sense. He was an especially able leader in the matter of making friendly contacts that served to overcome the prejudices that militate against the rise of a small college or university, along athletic lines. These friendly relations have endured and today Pitt is in an en-

HICKEY ORDERS REPLAY OF PROTESTED GAME

MINNEAPOLIS, April 30.—(AP.)—Thomas J. Hickey, president of the American Association, has ruled that the game here yesterday between Minneapolis and Indianapolis which was forfeited to Indianapolis, must be played over.

Jack Powell, umpire, gave the game to Indianapolis, 9 to 0, because two members of the Minneapolis club sat in the stands after they had been ordered from the park by the arbiter.

President Hickey, after a personal investigation, decided that Powell had acted too hastily in that he did not give Manager Mike Kelley of the Millers sufficient time to remove the offenders, Hubbell and Hall.

Sharkey Picked To Win

NEW YORK, April 30.—(AP.)—Jack Delaney and Jack Sharkey fight 15 rounds or less at Madison Square Garden tonight. The Boston sailor man is an 8 to 5 favorite chiefly on account of the disappointing showing Delaney has made in the heavyweight lists.

The match brings together two of the ring's greatest mysteries. Once regarded as an eventual certainty to wear the mantle that now drapes about Gene Tunney's broad shoulders, Delaney lost prestige he will find hard to regain, in his losing battle with Tom Heeney, the rugged New Zealander. Unless he flashes again the form that carried him to the light-heavyweight throne, Delaney may find himself cut loose from any further opportunity of crashing into the "big money" among the heavyweights.

As light-heavyweight champion he was hailed as one of the supermen of the ring. His left hand was one of the most accurate in the game and he possessed a killing punch in his right. Against Heeney the Bridgeport "rapier" kept that right hand strapped to his body and his left was not enough to keep the blacksmith from hammering out a victory.

BOTH NEED VICTORY

Sharkey is in much the same predicament as is his opponent. His draw battle with Heeney and the bout he lost to Johnny Risko

HARTNETT, WILSON NOT IN SHAPE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

A SERIES of injuries have left the Cubs in a weakened condition for their series with the Pirates, it was learned when the Chicagoans arrived for the opener today.

Gabby Hartnett, regarded as one of the league's best catchers, suffered a hand injury when he was struck with a pitched ball as the Cubs battled the Cardinals yesterday, and will not be able to play for at least two or three days. Mike Gonzales is to do the receiving.

Outfielders Hack Wilson and Ki Cuyler both are below top form. Hack, out for the greater part of opening week with a sprained ankle, twisted the weak member again yesterday. The sprain is so severe as to make running painful.

Cuyler's throwing hand is bandaged as the result of an injury sustained in a spring exhibition game.

REDS TOP BUCS

The Pirates lost a hard tussle to the Reds yesterday in Cincinnati. Remy Kremer and Eppa Rixey staged a real battle, the count going against the Buccos, 3 to 2.

A fine spurt in the ninth inning made the Pittsburghers look like late winners, but Harty Callaghan, subbing in center, robbed Pinch-Hitter Scott of a hit that would have put the invaders on even terms with the home foe. Scott batting for Grantham in the final round, slammed a long liner toward the scoreboard with P. Waner and Wright on third and second and two runs needed for a deadlock. The new Red speared the ball, only one run being tallied. Comorosky was thrown out for the last play of the game.

Kremer held the Reds to seven blows in eight innings and they could not touch John Miljus in the ninth. Rixey also was in rare form, Eppa Jeppa allowing only eight safe blows.

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

by HARRY KECK
SPORTS EDITOR

IT is remarkable what perspectives some boxers can get out of their fights. There's Jack Sharkey, for instance, the bozo who hasn't won a fight since before he met Jack Dempsey in New York last July. Jack makes another stagger in the heavyweight punch-trading line tonight when he boxes Jack Delaney over the 15-round route in Madison Square Garden, New York.

Sharkey has just compiled a list of his 10 toughest fights and he ranks them in the order in which they appealed to him and places at the top three which resulted in victories. George Godfrey heads the list, with Jack Renault second, Mike McTigue third and Jack Dempsey fourth. Next come Floyd Johnson, King Solomon, Johnny Risko, Harry Wills, his third bout with Jim Maloney and Tom Heeney.

Heeney held him to a draw, and as a result got the call to box Gene Tunney for the title in July, while Johnny Risko defeated him in his last start.

MONONGAHELA CITY is planning a testimonial banquet to Rod V. Ellsworth, its runner who competed in C. C. Pyle's Marathon, to be sponsored by Lodge No. 455, B. P. O. E., and scheduled for the evening of May 15, and the writer has been asked to be one of the guests and the speaker of the evening.

Ellsworth obtained a leave of absence from his job as a lineman for the West Penn Power Company to enter the Marathon, and when he returned he learned his job was gone. The last time I saw him he was making an effort to have the matter adjusted.

Meanwhile Bill Busch, Pittsburgh's entrant in the race, is back home recuperating and planning for the future. He may enter one of the Marathon dancing contests that are becoming a craze and also has in mind staging a professional 50-mile run here along about the time Pyle's runners are scheduled to come through Pittsburgh.

SPORT COMMENT

by JAMES J. LONG

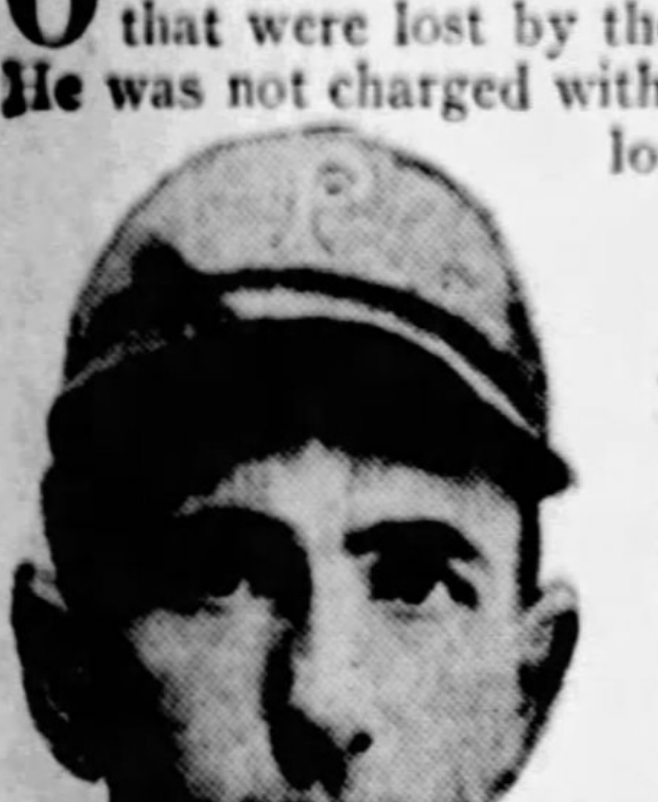
Kremer might have been much better yesterday but for the idle spell on Friday and Saturday, as that gave him five days of rest, and he must be worked oftener than that to get his best results, particularly this spring.

ON TWO successive Sundays Miljus has pitched in games that were lost by the Corsairs by the same score, 3 to 2. He was not charged with yesterday's reverse, however, as the loss was marked up against Kremer.



John Miljus

RIXEY, like Kremer, was idle Friday and Saturday, it is true, but he has pitched four games and doesn't need the work as badly as does Kremer. Rixey is getting off to a better start than usual this spring, having broken even in his four games. Last year he lost his first six contests and never was considered a good spring starter.

THE PIRATES have lost six out of ten games played on the road to date. They ought to get a much higher percentage of victories in the string of 18 straight games at home, starting today.

By JESS CARVER.

IT looks very much as though the boys who want to run on winning relay teams, from 440 yards on up, will have to start attending classes at old Illinois. Relay quartets wearing the colors of the Illini swept to victories in three races on the program of the Drake relay carnival at Des Moines last week, and assisted mightily in establishing the western meet over the annual and historic Penn relays, which were held in Philadelphia.

Drake outclassed Penn in 10 of the 15 regular events, and tied the Eastern carnival in two more. The Westerners established margins in the javelin, shot put, hammer throw and in the 440, 880, mile, distance medley, two-mile and four-mile relays. Penn gained decisions in the pole vault, broad jump and discus, and the meets were all even when it came to tabulating the 120-yard high hurdles and the high jump.

Penn might be given a margin in the high jump, for four men were able to clear six feet one inch in this event to one at Drake. The Penn mark in the pole vault was far and away superior to that made at Drake, and Hamm of Georgia Tech turned in a fine leap in the broad jump. In the discus, it took a Middle Western athlete, Rasmus of Ohio State, to win at Penn. No Easterner won a first at Drake.

WEATHER HANDICAP

Rain and snow and mud handicapped the athletes contesting in the Eastern event, and the marks made by the bedraggled contestants were very good, considering the handicap under which they competed. A high wind and some rain made the work of the Drakites almost as difficult, though conditions were not as bad as at Philadelphia.

The outstanding relay mark of the week-end was made by White of Kansas State Teachers' College when he heaved the 16-pound shot 48 feet 9 inches for a new carnival record at Des Moines. It shattered the old mark held by another Kansan, Johnny Kuck, who, by the way, broke the world's record for the shot put in a meet on the coast Saturday.

Elder, Notre Dame's sprinter, ran the century in :09.8 in the preliminaries at Drake on Friday, but only turned in a 10-second mark in the finals. Simpson of Ohio State won the event at Penn in 10 1-5.

Ketz, Michigan's hammer thrower, continued his winning ways by taking the Drake event, heaving the weight 155 feet 2 inches. This mark was a foot better than the one he made the week previous at Ohio State.

Weldon, a newcomer in javelin heaving ranks from Graceland College, hurled the spear 198 feet at Drake, which is considered very good.

But this Illinois outfit, winning the distance medley relay in 10:24 5-10; the two-mile in 7:58 8-10 and the four-mile in 18:12 and then finishing second in the 880 to Northwestern, certainly turned in an A-1 performance. All of the marks were faster than those made in the same events at Penn. North Carolina ran the four-mile at Penn in 19:04 2-15, and Bates won the two-mile in 8:19 3-5. Penn State came closest to establishing Eastern superiority in the distance medley on Friday, the Lion four negotiating the distance in 10:37 4-5, 13 3-5 seconds slower than the Illinois speedsters' times.

PITT MEN STRONG

Gibby Welch and Don Gwinn of Pitt, competing in their first meet of the year and only out of a 16-day quarantine a day, turned in exceptional performances in their events at Penn, Welch placing second in the discus and Don second in the hammer. To have placed at all would have been enough.

Vic Pickard was up with the topmost in the pole vault again, and it took Sabin Carr of Yale to break his record, made last year, in the event. As for Sabin, his world record of 14 feet 1 inch, was bettered by Lee Barnes in the same meet in which John Kuck broke the 19-year-old shot put mark.

CITY COUNCIL and Mayor Charles H. Kline will get together this afternoon in the Mayor's office to discuss public links golf, and the possibilities of the site proposed some time ago for the Aspinwall filtration plant.

A study of the plans to use a portion of the filtration plant site was made following a resolution passed by Councilman James F. Malone last year, and the results of that study will be given the "over-over."

The Mayor and his Council also may take into consideration the site proposed near the Tuberculosis Hospital, in the East End, which appears to have as many, if not more, advantages, and is a shorter distance from the business section.

Golf experts have assisted in the study, so a lucid report should be returned. If Pittsbugh needs any one thing more than another in providing recreation facilities for a healthy community, it is another municipal course to eliminate the congestion of the Schenley Park layout.

Glenna, Champion Paired in Golf Play Abroad

LONDON, April 30.—(AP.)—The luck of the draw for the British women's golf championship today put together Glenna Collett, the former American champion, and Mlle. Thion de la Chaume of France, the defending titleholder, in the first round of the tournament starting at Hunstanton, May 14.

Thus the two stars regarded as the foremost contenders for the championship are pitted together without preliminary.

viable position at the top of the heap.

The university itself has grown only proportionately to its athletics. With the advent of good teams in football and other sports, Pitt began to obtain favorable and limitless publicity throughout the country and thousands of students were attracted here, while local lads who otherwise might have been influenced to go away from home for their higher education required no urging to remain here and enter Pitt.

A year or so ago, the new administration at Pitt found it expedient to make changes in the personnel of the athletic directing staff with a view to hastening the paying off of the stadium obligation. New men were brought in from the outside and Davis became a figure of secondary importance in the handling of the athletic association's affairs. He retained his positions as graduate athletic manager and alumni secretary, however, and accepted the change in the order of things with good grace; but long-time followers of Pitt athletics found themselves wondering at the turnover and not without misgivings. The shock of Davis' resignation at this time is likely to result in further lifting of eyebrows and much speculation. Graduate athletic managers of Karl Davis' type are not so numerous that they can be easily spared for other business enterprises.

In looking back across the years of "K. E.'s" regime at Pitt, I am struck by his record of achievement. Starting as a student at old W. U. P., he was a graduate of the class of 1910 in engineering. During his undergraduate days he was active in the advancement of the athletic cause of the university, serving as publicity man and in other capacities in the days when football games were played at old Exposition Park on the North Side and the crowds numbered from 3,000 to 4,000. It was during that period that he and Mo Kornblum, then sports editor of the old Leader, first conceived the idea of putting numbers on the backs of the players for identification purposes, and, incidentally, to stimulate the sale of programs, a concession they shared between them. The idea did not catch on very readily, visiting coaches suspecting a trick whereby their stars might be easily singled out by the Wuppites. However, it was only a matter of a few years before the stunt became general and now it is a universal custom in football and a great convenience for the spectators.

BUILDER OF SYSTEM

In 1912, after he had worked for the late A. R. Hamilton since his graduation, Davis was induced to become graduate athletic manager of Pitt, succeeding Laurence R. Hurst, a local attorney. The institution had transferred its football games to Forbes Field with the opening of the Pirates' new stadium in 1909. When Davis took over the reins, I understand the season football receipts were approximately $50,000. By 1924, the last season at Forbes Field, they had jumped to $300,000, and the first season in the stadium they were $400,000, despite an orgy of rainy Saturdays.

Davis was not keen for the building of a stadium until he felt it was absolutely necessary. I remember that for several seasons when the ticket question for the major games at Forbes Field presented a serious problem, I urged the hastening of plans for some such structure, but Davis was inclined to go slow. He felt the university had more urgent need of buildings for educational purposes than it had for a football stadium and one of his acts during this period was to have the athletic association contribute $150,000 toward the erection of Alumni Hall. When it finally became imperative to build the stadium and the larger gymnasium facilities connected with it, Davis was the man who picked the site and put the idea across with A. R. Hamilton, Floyd Rose and other leading spirits in the direction of Pitt athletics.

Before the magnificent structure was completed it became apparent that it was going to cost considerably more than the estimated sum and upon realization of the dream of an athletic home the athletic association found itself hard put to eke out the necessary income, despite the enormity of the receipts. Davis, with his well-organized staff, squared himself for the task of going over the top and was in the midst of his work when the changes in the athletic staff were made and he found himself looking on as others sought to do something that he, if left alone, undoubtedly would have worked out successfully, as he had other big problems in the past.

WILL BE MISSED

Having made the direction of college athletics his lifework, a man of Davis' energies could not be expected to sit idly by while there was real work to be done, and it is not surprising therefore, that he has come to a decision to step out and make a fresh start along new lines. He departs with the regrets and best wishes of countless alumni spread all over the world, many of whom, unacquainted with the situation, will be shocked when they learn the news, and of the student body and Pitt athletes of the last two decades, many of whom he personally induced to enter Pitt and nursed along to greatness.

Davis never was a limelighter. What publicity he sought always was for the university or its athletic sons. His name never was used except in connection with an official communication and then only when necessary. During his tenure in office he maintained such harmony that there were few changes in the coaching staffs or other personnels which came under his direction and he leaves behind a well-organized management system. In the 15 years he served, Pitt had only three football coaches, the late Joe Duff, Glenn (Pop) Warner and Jock Sutherland. Karl was the leading mover behind the installation of the graduate coaching system, and the one-year residence, freshman and other eligibility rules which enabled the university to meet other large rivals on an even level and developed Camp Hamilton at Windber as a football training camp. During the war he left his job to enter the service, going to an officers' training camp at Jacksonville, Fla.

TRUE TO ALMA MATER

I can appreciate with what mixed feelings Davis must have arrived at his decision to break off his official connection with his alma mater, for which his sentimental affection still is keen, and I am certain that all true sons of Pitt realize they are losing a good man, who should be a wow in whatever new field his endeavors may lie.

By VERNON A. SWARTSFAGER.

The municipal links in Schenley Park will be open to the public for play tomorrow morning, according to Superintendentof Parks Moore, who issued orders to that effect at the club today.

SHARKEY

apparently demonstrated that the symptoms of greatness discovered in him after he beat Harry Wills, Jimmy Maloney and others were symptoms and nothing more. Not since he was knocked out by Jack Dempsey last summer has the former loquacious gob shown the promise that characterized his work against lesser foes.

Caution—too much of it—was the chief cause for the poor showing made by both Delaney and Sharkey in Tex Rickard's elimination tournament to develop an outstanding contender for Tunney's crown, most boxing experts believe.

With no "shot" for the title in sight, it may be that both will abandon caution and seek to regain the prestige that once was theirs.

The two principals have put in a long siege of training, and both reported themselves in first-class condition.

Delaney, scaling around 180 pounds, probably will concede about 13 pounds to Sharkey.

Speculation Still Rages, Despite Sobering Events.

By B. C. FORBES

STOCK quotations ended the week close to the peak of the boom, reached on April 13. The rail division actually went higher than ever before.

Industry and business are not exhibiting any such exuberance. Irregularity rules there.

THE chief excuses given for the market's demonstrative advance on Friday were that the local federal bank had not raised its rediscount rate and the brokers' loans had not expanded very much more.

Unless precedent fails, the New York institution will shortly advance its rate in keeping with the action being taken elsewhere. Its ratio of reserve fell fully 5 per cent last week and is not more than 12 per cent under a year ago. The entire system showed a further decline, bringing the percentages to 71.3 against 79.5 a year ago. Moreover, call money was firmly held at 5 per cent and time funds at the same figure; both time loans and commercial paper are ¼ to ½ of 1 per cent above last year.

April gold shipments have seen the heaviest ever known, reaching $100,000,000 by Saturday. Nor is the end of the outflow within sight.

That the guardians of the nation's banking system are determined to make their cautionary action effective is revealed by their fresh throwing on the market of government securities held by the reserve banks.

CLEARLY, therefore, the change which is taking place in the money market is not conducive to continued marking up of speculative stocks. We used to be told that the rise was based mainly on the superabundance of abnormally cheap money. But as that argument has been weakened, the marking up process has become still more aggressive by powerful bulls.

Such action is, of course, rather illogical. But, in truth, the optimistic speculators have manifested scant regard for logic.

For example, the record-breaking rise in railway stocks has been going on during a period when railway traffic has been declining. The latest monthly reports show that car loadings are still running at least 4 per cent under a year ago. During March rather drastic cutting of outlays made the net showing somewhat better than 12 months ago.

PART of last week's violent fluctuations in certain railway issues was based on reports concerning the doings of L. F. Loree, president of the Delaware and Hudson, who had ambitions to weld together a great trunk line. The news that his plans had failed and that he had sold his large holdings in Wabash and Lehigh Valley to the Pennsylvania, which presumably acted also for other eastern roads, instead of bringing about an abrupt end to clamorous bidding for shares affected, was interpreted by Wall Street, in its present mood, as a reason for expecting rail shares to go still higher. Normally, the settling of a titanic battle between giants for control of properties brings an end to skyrocketing.

But the stock market, as already said, has not permitted itself to be governed by such a prosaic thing as logic or by experiences of the past.

THAT speculation is not confined to Wall Street is evident. As a matter of fact, wire houses declare that never before have so many individuals throughout the country taken part in stock dealings. The success of those who entered the market months ago has apparently stimulated others to "get into the game." Many fondly imagine that they have found a new, easy, quick safe way to make lots of money.

It may be added that Wall Street banks are not responsible for the inordinate expansion in brokers' loans. The increased lending has come from out-of-town financial institutions and from corporations having large cash surpluses. Inability to employ the money in ordinary business or industrial channels accounts for this development.

What the final upshot of the whole speculative orgy will be remains to be seen. My own old-fashioned opinion is that history is likely to repeat itself.

AGRICULTURAL conditions are better. Grain prices have touched new high levels. Cotton also has had a substantial advance. Cattle prices are high. Business reports from most agricultural states are more cheerful, and banking failures have died down. Demands for political relief are fewer and milder.

THE automobile industry is the star performer of American industries. Few others are smashing activity records—and some that are active enough are not making a corresponding amount of profit. It is very encouraging to note that building contracts let this year top the total for the first four months of last year—a showing that may astonish many. Retail trade is distinctly spotty, due often to unfavorable weather. Spring, as expected, has brought modification of unemployment, although complaints are still heard.

Politics continue to be ignored completely by Wall street.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, April 30.—Feverish general buying and scarcity of offerings resulted in a steep advance of wheat values today. Sensationally unfavorable private crop summaries for May that are looked for tomorrow had much to do with stimulating speculative demand to an unusual degree, and so too did persistent dry weather southwest, west and northwest with advices of dust storms. Corn, oats and rye as well as wheat established a new high price record for the season.

Wheat closed unsettled, 2⅞@3¼c net higher; corn showing 3⅛@4¼c advance; oats varying from ⅛c decline to ⅝c gain, and provisions ranging from 2c lower to a rise of 20c.

Besides advices of unfavorable weather threatening further curtailment of domestic wheat production, wheat traders today were confronted with talk that monthly reports by unofficial crop experts tomorrow will indicate a yield of less than 500,000,000 bushels of winter wheat and a condition of about 75 per cent. The latter figures are higher than the latest government estimate, but are based on acreage remaining for harvest, whereas the government figures are for the entire acreage.

A yield of less than 500,000,000 bushels of domestic winter wheat this season would compare with 552,000,000 bushels harvested last year and with a five-year average of 548,000,000 bushels. Under such circumstances, wheat buying here today was of extremely heavy volume, price changes were wide and fast, and individual operations counted for little. Declines at Liverpool were completely ignored.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, April 30.—The raw sugar market was unchanged early today at 4.27c for duty free and 4.33c for Cuban. Sales reported were 28,700 bags of Porto Rican at 4.27c and 36,000 bags at 4.29c to operators.

The raw sugar futures market was steady at the opening with May 1 point lower under liquidation as a result of the issuance of 100 notices. Later months were from 1 to 3 points higher on covering and buying by houses with Cuban and European connections. The demand was supplied at these levels by commission house and trade selling. Reactions left the market at midday net unchanged to 1 point higher.

No fresh feature was reported in the refined market, although with old contracts pretty well cleared up, some new business is expected in the near future. Prices were unchanged at 5.95 to 6.00c for fine granulated.

BOOST IN MONEY RATE CHECKS UPSWING

NEW YORK, April 30.—(AP.)—Marking up of the call money rate from 5 to 6 per cent checked a sharp upswing in prices in today's stock market. Oils were again in the vanguard of the advance, climbing 1 to 10 points with about a score issues touching new peak prices. Rails were inclined to heaviness, although Delaware and Hudson ran up 5 points in the early trading.

Raising of the money rate followed the calling of about $30,000,000 in loans, presumably to meet the heavy month-end demands for currency. There was little else in the day's news to influence the price movement, although most of the earnings reports published during the day were favorable in character.

Indian Refining soaring 9 points to a new peak at 124½ recorded the largest gain in the oil group, although Standard Oils of New York and New Jersey led in point of activity. General Asphalt issues rallied about 4½ points each and a number of others moved up 1 to 3 points. Special strength also was apparent in such stocks as American Bank Note, Brooklyn Edison, Coca-Cola, Underwood Elliott, Wright Aeronautical, Electric Auto Lite and American Water Works.

The first 73 railroads to report their March earnings show combined net operating income of $84,917,250, as against $87,488,786 in the same month of 1927, a decrease of 2.94 per cent. New York Central, Lehigh Valley, Lackawanna and Pittsburgh and West Virginia sold down 1 to 2 points.

The closing was heavy. A number of representative issues, including Radio, Sears-Roebuck, Allied Chemical, Case Threshing Machine and General Railway Signal, were down 3 to 5 points and Delaware and Hudson lost all its gain before the market began to show the effect of some supporting orders in the last hour. Radio rallied from 176 to 181½ and Pullman, Loew's and Consolidated Gas also manifested strength, but the general market was sluggish. Adams Express, after advancing 5 points to 375, collapsed to 252. Total sales approximated 4,100,000 shares.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, April 30.—(AP.)—Early declines were followed by renewed strength in the cotton market today on apprehensions of further unsettled weather in the south and continued bullish reports on the effects of recent storms. Prices made new high ground for the movement on all positions after showing net declines of about 18 to 20 points in early trading.

The mid-afternoon market showed net advances of 33 to 49 points, recoveries of more than half a cent from the low levels of the morning.

Futures closed steady, 35 to 44 points higher. May, 21.62@21.68c; July, 21.39@21.43c; October, 21.30@21.32c; December, 21.15@21.18c; January, 21.04@21.05c. Spot steady, middling, 22.15c.

The opening decline brought in considerable buying, and prices recovered part of their loss by the end of the first hour, May advancing to 21.15c and October to 20.76c. Buying was probably promoted by a private report estimating the increase in acreage over last year at 4.2 per cent and the percentage of the crop planted as of April 28 at 28 per cent, against 30 per cent at the same time last year, with much replanting necessary.

Private cables reported local, London and continental liquidation in Liverpool, but a slightly better inquiry for cotton cloths from India.

The market showed increasing strength during the middle of the morning on the outlook for showers in Arkansas and Louisiana and increasing cloudiness in some eastern belt sections. Covering and re-buying by early sellers lifted May to 21.35c and October to 21.02c, or 10 to 16 points above yesterday's close. The volume of business tapered off at these figures and some realizing appeared. The market was quieter at midday, with prices showing reactions of several points from the best.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Airbrake's Net Halved.

The Westinghouse Airbrake Company reports for the quarter ended March 31 net income of $1,417,968 after depreciation and taxes, equal to 45 cents a share on the stock, as compared with $2,802,798 or 87 cents a share in the March quarter last year.

Anaconda's 1927 Earnings.

The Anaconda Copper Mining Company and subsidiaries report for the year 1927 net income of $10,121,141 after expenses, depreciation, interest charges and minority interest, but before depletion, equal to $3.57 a share, compared with $14,226,902 or $4.71 a share in 1926. In the report to the stockholders, John D. Ryan, chairman of the board, and Cornelius F. Kelley, president, stated "the recession in the volume of business from high level of 1926 was not met by producers with a curtailment of production adequate to meet the situation, until stocks had accumulated to a large total and prices had declined to a very low level. During the last half of the year copper production was somewhat curtailed, and the price of the metal made an advance of about 1.5 cents per pound. The export business during the year showed satisfactory increase in volume, the total shipped from North and South America being 641,465 tons, as compared with 525,861 tons for the previous year."

Chile Earned $2.51 a Share.

The Chili Copper Company reports for the year 1927 consolidated net income of $11,065,537 after taxes, interest and depreciation, but before depletion, equal to $2.51 a share on 4,415,497 shares, as against net of $11,655,907 or $2.65 a share on 4,391,331 shares in 1926.

A. M. Byers Income Drops.

Net income of A. M. Byers Company for six months ended March 31 declined to $594,120 from $673,472 in the previous corresponding period. This is equal to $1.90 a share on the common against $3.03 on a smaller amount of common outstanding a year ago.

Security Loan Expansion.

The May 1 monthly review of credit and business conditions by the New York Federal Reserve agent, calls attention to a renewal in recent weeks of the rapid expansion of credit, which occurred last year. The increase since February 21 in loans and investments by banks reporting weekly to the Federal Reserve agent, representing 40 per cent of the total resources of all banks in the country, amounted to $400,000,000, or nearly 4 per cent. This represents an increase in two months nearly three-fourths as large as the average annual increase in the past five years. Part of the increase was accounted for by the seasonal expansion of commercial borrowing, but a renewed demand for security loans in the last month has been the principal factor. A rapid absorption of reserve funds has resulted, and this has been an important factor in the tightening of the money market. Other factors have been a continued outward flow of gold and a further reduction in security holdings of Federal Reserve banks.

Fisher's Commodity Index Up.

Prof. Irving Fisher's commodity price index for past week is 99.7 against 99.4 in previous week and 98.1 a month ago.

C. P. R. Gained in March.

Canadian Pacific March net earnings were $3,633,208 against $2,984,195 for March, 1927. Net for three months amounted to $8,114,300, against $6,462,628 a year ago.

Superior Steel Loss Smaller.

Superior Steel Corporation net loss was $63,117 for the March quarter after depreciation and interest, against loss of $73,223 in the preceding quarter and loss of $38,015 in the March quarter of 1927.

Gasoline Market Improved.

Commenting on the current rise in the oil stocks, one of the New York investment houses says: "It is from the gasoline standpoint that the picture looks most promising. Since early in March there has been a noticeable betterment in the gasoline market. Wholesale prices are about one-half cent a gallon higher than in early March at large refining centers, and in numerous instances retail prices have been increased. By comparison with low price prevailing at height of the depression, last December, the improvement is even more striking. In the Mid-Continent market, known as group three, wholesale gasoline was quoted recently around 6¼ cents a gallon, compared with a low of 5¼ cents at the end of 1927. The wholesale markets on the Gulf and Atlantic coasts have shown a better tone, and in California gasoline in tank steamer lots was recently around 7 cents at Los Angeles harbor, against 6 cents some months ago."

Patino Mines.

Over the last two weeks Patino Mines has advanced more than 10 points. One reason was the report that the company may pay a total of 18 shillings in dividends this year compared with 13 last year. The last interim dividend paid was 4 shillings. In connection with the recent listing of the stock on the London Stock Exchange the Stock Exchange Gazette says: "Total recorded production of the mines from 1906 to 1926 was 193,470 long tons of fine tin. The company also owns Machacamarca-Uncia Railway, which connects with Antofagasta and Bolivia Railway. It is stated that the average net profits for the last three years before charging depreciation were £1,501,536. Dividends of 13 shillings were paid for 1925 and 1926, and a final dividend of 4 shillings per share has just been declared, making a total of 13 shillings for 1927.

Discounting Bank Rates.

H. S. Edwards & Co., in their weekly market letter, say in part: "The question of what the New York Reserve Bank will do with its rediscount rate is no longer a factor of importance, as it is a foregone conclusion that whether the rate is raised this week or later on, it will be raised, and the market has had its chance to discount this upon the advance of the Boston, St. Louis and Chicago rates. We believe it the best policy to confine purchases to the oils, certain rails and utilities, and a group of specialty stocks that would weather with relative safety any sharp readjustment of the technical situation."

American Republics Show Loss.

The American Republics Corporation reports for March quarter net loss of $251,729 after charges and federal taxes, against net loss of $224,129 in the preceding quarter and net income of $334,436 in the March, 1927, period.

Owens Bottle Profits Off.

The Owens Bottle Company reports for March quarter net profit of $791,776 after expenses and taxes, against $1,119,117 in the March, 1927, quarter.

This is equal after preferred dividends to 94 cents a share on 767,186 common shares, as against $1.34 a share on 729,906 shares in the March, 1927, quarter.

West Buying Stocks.

The larger wire house estimate that close to 75 per cent of business is coming in from the west. With the exception of Chicago, it is claimed advices indicate that traders are in an enthusiastic bullish mood and see no end to the bull market. Every tip sent over the wire brings in buying orders in volume never reached before. As a result there have been some stocks kept moving higher after pool liquidation has been completed. It is only a question of time when such pool stocks slip off when attention is ended and when sufficient number of such manipulated issues are passed along the inevitable reaction is experienced.

Cassatt Expands Service.

Cassatt & Co's offices in the Union Trust Building have been enlarged and facilities expanded to meet the increasing demands on the branch here. In addition to the private wires linking the office with principal cities, the firm has installed a stock quotation board with continuous quotation service. Leo G. Griffith is manager of the local office.

Outgoing Gold and Money Rates.

The reappearance of heavy gold exports, simultaneously with an unprecedented level of speculative activity and the largest volume of bank loans and deposits on record, has focused attention on the general credit situation, and more particularly on the probable effects of further gold shipments on banking conditions, says the Guaranty Trust Company of New York. A billion dollars or more could be withdrawn from the country's gold stock without enforcing a reduction in bank credit, the report said, but it did not follow that this or any other definite amount could actually be lost without affecting the level of money rates, the movement of security prices, business confidence and financial and trade conditions generally. The reduction in the country's gold stock from May 1, 1927, and March 31, 1928, amounts to about $300,000,000.

Yale & Towne.

Yale & Towne Manufacturing Company had a first quarter deficit of $26,911 after dividends of $400,000, in contrast to surplus of $132,875 after dividends, in the first quarter last year.

Important Nickel Deal Hinted.

An important deal between International Nickel Company and Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company of Canada, which is controlled by Canadian Pacific Railway, is reported impending. It is understood the deal calls for establishment of a copper smelter in Eastern Canada under joint control of the two companies. Partial merger of the two companies is also suggested in view of the fact that Canadian Pacific Railway controls Consolidated Mining.

TXN Profit Declines.

First quarter profit of Texas Pacific Coal and Oil dropped to $361,080 before depreciation charges, from $693,936 a year ago.

Union Pacific Traffic.

Loadings of the Union Pacific are still showing a consistent increase over last year, largely in grain and potatoes, says Cary Gray, president. The shortage in the corn crop in the central state has aided the road materially. Crop conditions in its territory are favorable, the fruit crop in the Northwest being very promising. The lumber business still lagging in the Northwest.

Victor and Radio.

Asked by stockholders whether recurring reports of possible consolidation of Victor Talking Machine Company and Radio Corporation should be regarded seriously, E. E. Shoemaker, president of Victor Company at the annual meeting Friday said there was a community of interest between the two companies and that conversations had taken place on the practicability of a merging of properties.

Distillers' Loss Larger.

The National Distillers' Products Company reports a consolidated net loss of $43,032 for the quarter ended March 31 after interest, but before depreciation and amortization, against loss of $4,794 in 1927 quarter.

ELECTRIC LOSES EARLY GAIN

Prices on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange made no response to the upward bulge in the New York list in the early dealings today. The market here maintained a steady tone with quotations ranging within small fractions of the levels prevailing on the close Saturday.

Westinghouse Electric ran up sharply in New York, continuing the move started last Friday, but, aside from adjustment of bids and offers to conform with the eastern market, there was no excitement in the stock here. In the late market the stock lost its early gain when the entire list sold off on the hardening money rate. Westinghouse Air Brake ignored a poor first quarter's earnings report and scored a small gain in the initial trading. Net earnings of Air Brake for the March quarter dropped 50 per cent under those of the same quarter last year.

Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt and Carnegie Metals, which had been leading the trading in the local list the past few sessions, were both quiet during the forenoon with prices about the same as Saturday's closings. Standard Sanitary was steady and the fuels were firm, although failing to respond to the strong oil market in New York.

Union Steel Castings was in demand and was pushed to a new high for the year, a fraction above the previous close.

BEFORE AND AFTER

Often before a loss insurance is considered an unnecessary expense—but after a loss regret is often expressed that not more insurance had been taken out.

When you deal in real estate include POTTER TITLE INSURANCE in the transaction before the deal is closed—not after a loss has been sustained, for then it is too late.

AND ON TOP OF THAT HOW WOULD THE OLD GENT FEEL AFTER IDENTIFYING ME AS A TYPICAL BROWN? SILLY, IS RIGHT! IN OTHER WORDS WHY SHOULD I START A BIG ARGUMENT OVER MAYBE NOTHING WITH A MAN WHO SURE TALKS AS IF HE INTENDS TO GIVE ME A SQUARE DEAL? GUSTAVE BE YOURSELF!

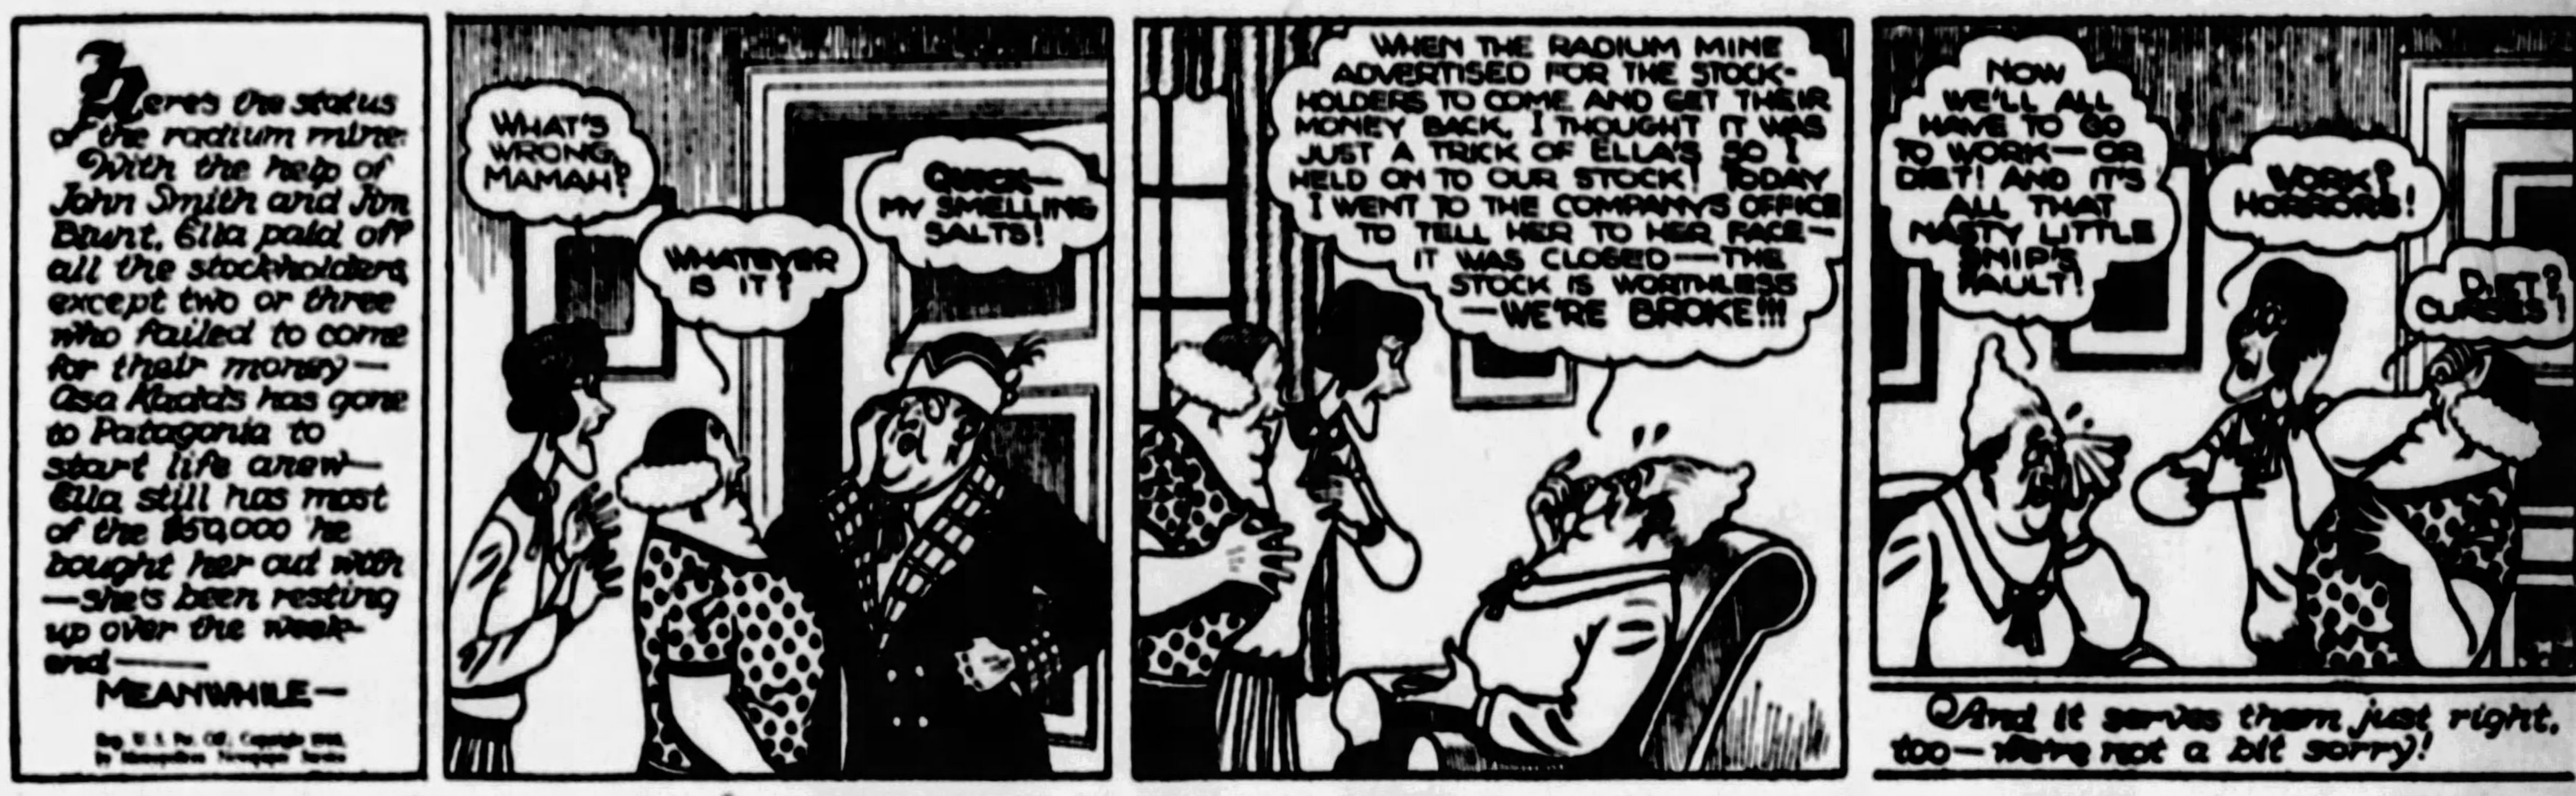
Work Or Diet



Here's the status of the radium mine: With the help of John Smith and Jim Blunt, Ella paid off all the stockholders except two or three who failed to come for their money—Asa Rabbit has gone to Patagonia to start life anew—Ella still has most of the $50,000 he bought her out with—she's been resting up over the week-end——
MEANWHILE—
WHAT'S WRONG, MAMAH?
WHATEVER IS IT?
QUICK—MY SMELLING SALTS!
WHEN THE RADIUM MINE ADVERTISED FOR THE STOCKHOLDERS TO COME AND GET THEIR MONEY BACK, I THOUGHT IT WAS JUST A TRICK OF ELLA'S SO I HELD ON TO OUR STOCK! TODAY I WENT TO THE COMPANY'S OFFICE TO TELL HER TO HER FACE—IT WAS CLOSED—THE STOCK IS WORTHLESS—WE'RE BROKE!!!
NOW WE'LL ALL HAVE TO GO TO WORK—OR DIET! AND IT'S ALL THAT NASTY LITTLE SNIP'S FAULT!
WORK? HORRORS!
DIET? CURSES!
And it serves them just right, too—we're not a bit sorry!

BUGS BAER Says

IF WAR was conducted like politics a general would have to whip his own army before he could whip the enemy.

April sees the strange sight of Republicans crashing each other bow-legged while Democrats practice interstate cannibalism on other Democrats.

This preliminary ritual to the mystic Ides of November is known as the primaries. It is a struggle for delegates who will carry their instructions in their heads, which is the last place the opposition will look for it.

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER.

The primary election results in a gentleman's agreement between the delegate and the candidate. Even if the candidate is not a gentleman, the contract is certain to be one-sided.

If your delegate doesn't get smothered by his own badges he is sure to get lost in the aisle.

The actions of a delegate at a convention are comparable only to the gyrations of the Texas road-runner, a genus of the long-tailed cuckoo, which gallops up and down the southwestern pikes with power in his legs and nothing on his mind.

The world is still wondering what became of those twenty-four instructed delegates who stampeded the 1924 aisles shouting for Oscar Underwood with as much originality and initiative as two dozen needles on a graphophone record.

After that convention in Madison Square Garden, we advise the Houston chairman to put glue on the seats, compel the delegates to arrive in bare feet and to strew the aisles with broken glass.

Daylight Saving This Year Helps Out Delayed Spring

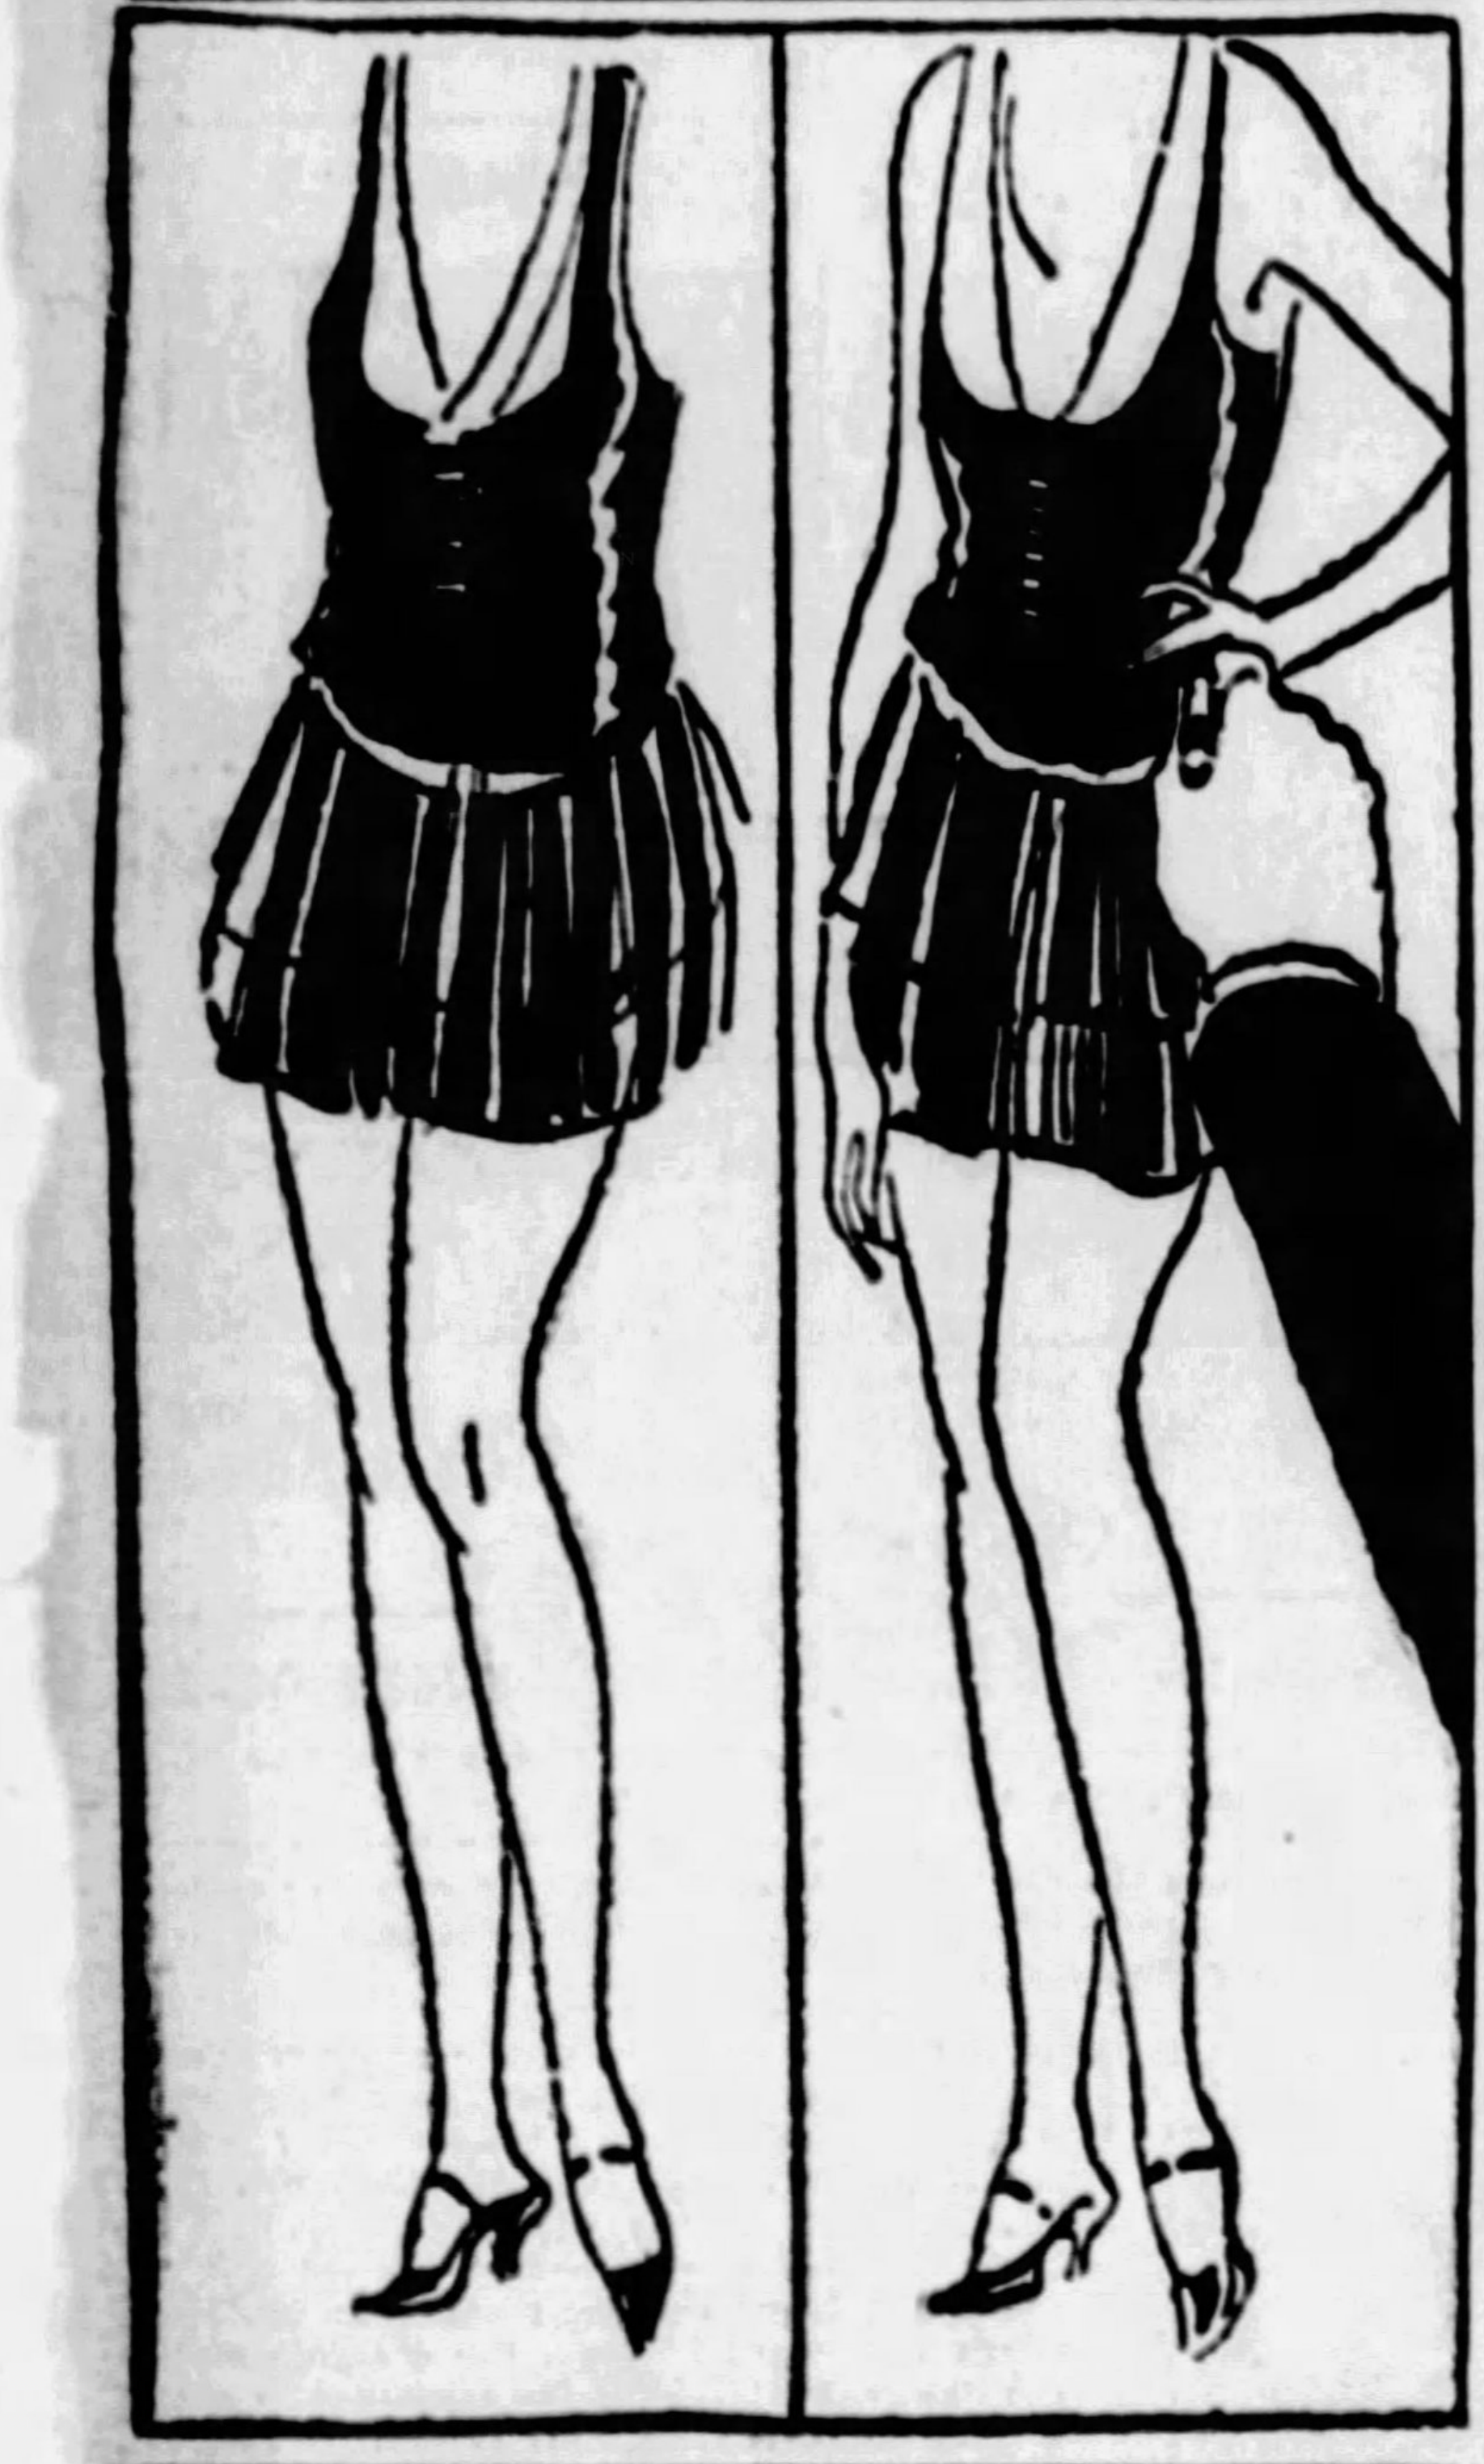
With daylight saving time in force, to prevail throughout the summer months, Pittsburgh again is on a time schedule which many persons think is an ideal arrangement. They like the longer period it affords between the quitting of regular occupation and the darkness which normally is the bedtime signal.

It will be especially valuable this year to the man who likes to get out in the evening and work around his yard, raking out the dead grass of the sward, digging up a space for a little garden of flowers or vegetables, snipping here and there with a pruning knife, or doing any of the dozens of little chores the home-loving man usually devotes himself to at this time of year. So far this spring, the weather man has not been friendly to these little activities. Hence, the extra hour of daylight will be doubly appreciated by the man who likes to get out and "putter around" his yard.

In a recreational way, daylight saving is a boon to many and it likely is a factor in determining the curve on the health chart. Despite determined efforts to kill it off, daylight saving is growing in popularity in cities. Each year there is an addition to the towns which take it up. There must be a reason.

Why Not?

The Whole Is More Modest Than the Part.



WILL THESE SKIRTS COME? PROBABLY

James Montgomery Flagg, in search of beauty and visiting Los Angeles, tells the possessors of that wonderful climate, "The girl of 1930 will stop bobbing her hair and make it up by bobbing her skirt." He took his pencil and drew the two ladies of 1930 that you see here.

This is his description of the girl of 1930: "Two bare arms, except for a few bracelets. She won't be handicapped by clothes. Legs and arms will be entirely free and sleeves will go into storage. She will be an athlete, Miss 1930 will."

She MAY be an athlete and she MAY be a consumptive, unless she knows enough to put very heavy woolen stockings on those legs, and very heavy woolen underwear under those little skirts in winter.

But so far as the question of MODESTY goes, since women have cut off their skirts just above the knee, they would be really more modest to dress as Mr. Flagg suggests.

To show your knees, ADVERTISING IMMODESTY, is really more immodest, than frankly showing the entire leg, if that is your desire, and if you think that pleases men.

IT DOESN'T, BY THE WAY—men like something left to their imagination—but that is another story.

There is nothing immodest, never was, about the lady in the circus riding bareback, or flipping from one trapeze to another. She wears her tights, her smile, her bodice. She really IS an athlete. Everybody admires her artistic shape, her decency and self-respect.

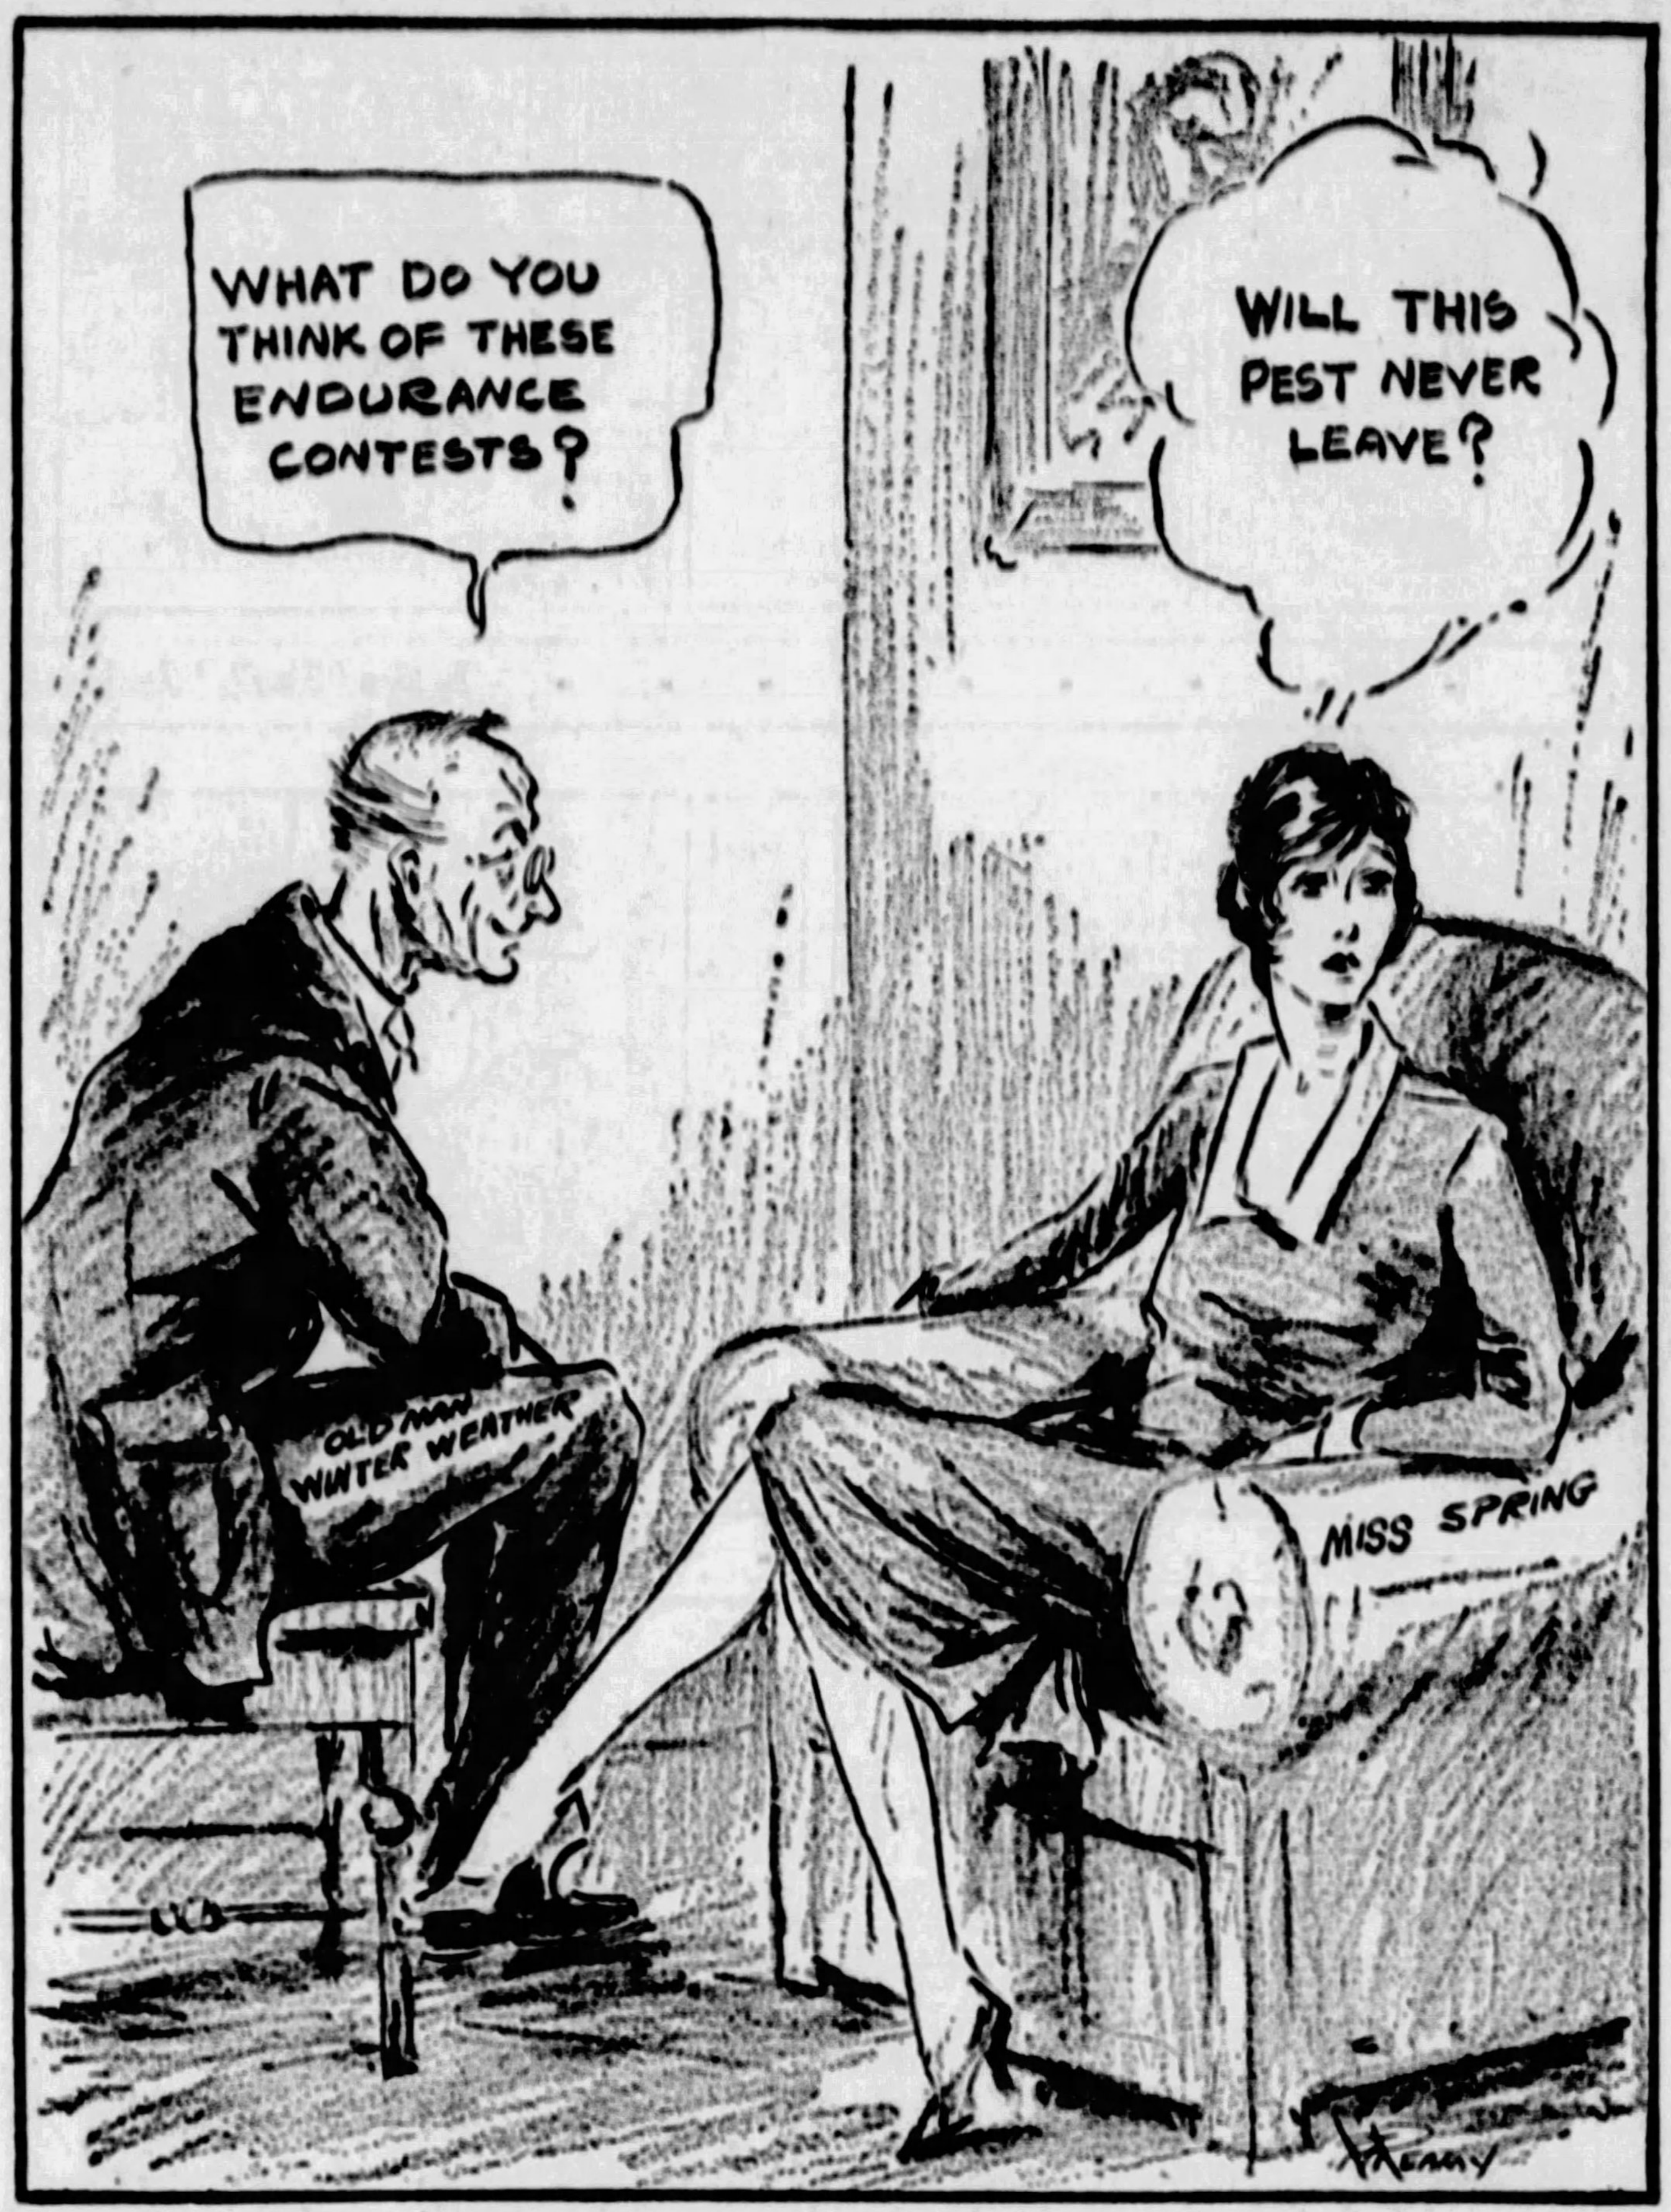
When she gets down from the trapeze, hops off the horse, she puts on real clothes. And she's a "lady."

Women will come back to real clothes eventually: not necessarily to long skirts, which date from the Turk and the harem, but to clothing that will cover her body as it should be covered.

By hook or by crook she will manage to invent breeches less ugly than men's, with warm stockings, solid, substantial shoes with heels and soles fit to carry her over the earth. WARMTH for cold weather, to preserve the vitality which is life.

Then she will be a real woman, and also an athlete if she wants to be—although being an athlete isn't woman's business. Hers is the power to create the human race. And that counts, not the power to lift a dumbbell—or to be one.

AND HE SPEAKS OF ENDURANCE!



WHAT DO YOU THINK OF THESE ENDURANCE CONTESTS?
WILL THIS PEST NEVER LEAVE?

Garrett P. Serviss Says:

The North Star Altar

NAKED-EYE acquaintance with the stars is the beginning of astronomy. And acquaintance with the stars begins with Polaris, the North Star—the cynosure of the lost and of the fugitive. I have a suggestion for every "street" and "park astronomer" (whose numbers I am glad to believe are increasing). The suggestion is that they always point out the North Star to their clients, and a few of the constellations also. If they charged something extra for such service, the fee would be well earned, and well paid too.

Many thousands would be glad enough to learn the stars if only they could easily obtain the preliminary personal guidance, which is almost essential, for relatively few will take the trouble to work out this knowledge with the aid of books and charts.

There is a peculiar institution in New York City, in the shadows north of the great Museum of Natural History, at the western side of Central Park. It bears the romantic name of "North Star Altar." There is no altar there, except in the mind.

The candles of this imaginary altar are outdoor telescopes, whose flames are distant stars. The rays which they concentrate in the eyes of the modern star worshippers are instinct with a higher inspiration than that which thrilled the ancient Egyptian priests, who from the darkness of a mysterious subterranean chamber, deep beneath the Great Pyramid, watched the "north star" of their day through a "stone telescope tube," piercing for hundreds of feet the solid masonry of the mighty pile.

Mr. Brenner and his volunteer aides at the New York star altar are the priests of a higher cult than the land of the Nile knew, and yet those old mystics were perhaps more scientific than they were aware of being. Rejecting their gods and goddesses, we can yet find something of value that they learned, for one cannot study the stars and remain in ignorance.

I wish every city and every village had a "North Star Altar." That, together with such a guide as Leon Barritt's "Monthly Evening Sky Map," would make astronomers of us all—at least the beginnings of astronomers. Why, in heaven's name, should so many millions of intelligent, educated people remain totally ignorant of the stars, never recognizing a single one, though the names of hundreds have burned in temples of history and of legend for thousands of years?

With the swift progress of modern astronomy the names of many of the great stars like Betelgeuse, Spica, Antares, Algol, Sirius, Canopus have become as individual in significance and as important in the story of the march of human events as those of great leaders, great cities, great concentrations of power. They are in plain view; they are fascinating to the eye and the imagination—yet multitudes of people never look at them and notice them individually no more than they notice the sparks from a locomotive. Is it, as Emerson suggests, a result of too great familiarity?

"If the stars should appear one night in a thousand years, how would men believe and adore and preserve for many generations the remembrance of the city of God that had been shown!"

But those who know the stars find no dulling of interest, because they are always there. A great capital is never dull.

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY

Mr. Smart Alec

HOW about it, old man, do you think you can get gay with the cashier in the cigar store, the girl who operates an elevator, the girl behind the counter or the office girl?

Why be less courteous to a business girl than to one of your own set?

All these occupations are honorable and the girls are trying to earn a living honestly.

So long as they conduct themselves properly, and the majority do, they are entitled to your respect.

In self-defense, working girls dealing with the public become sarcastic and short in their replies.

They have to assume a curt, snappish manner to protect themselves from the "smart-Alec."

It is unfortunate that a business girl should have to adopt this protective attitude.

Often men old enough to be their fathers, bother them the most.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELS

The Gardener

WHERE the flowers stand like children
With bright heads in a row,
An old man through the garden goes,
A man the flowers all know.

The pansies shyly greet him,
The daisies toward him sway,
Each rose its tenderest fragrances
Breathes out along his way.

He labors in the garden
From dawn till dusk drifts down,
He gives the flowers his ebbing strength
While they weave him a crown.

He builds their bloom and beauty,
He rules their blossoming;
Supreme, he walks the graveled paths,
A gardener? No, a king!

Tales that are Told

PRIVATE J. P. JAY, marched up to his captain and saluted smartly.

"I would like leave of absence, sir," he said.

"What for?" queried the officer.

"My wife wants my help. We're moving tomorrow, sir."

"I don't like to refuse you," said the captain, "but I've just received a letter from your wife saying that she does not want you to come home because you're more bother than help."

The soldier saluted and turned to go. At the door he stopped and remarked:

"Sir, there are two persons in this regiment who handle the truth carelessly, and I'm one of them. I'm not married."

Too Much Trouble

THIS is the story of the world's laziest man, who who was so idle that he would not work, and who finally found the effort of eating too much for him.

His friends thought to do him a good turn by frightening him. They put him in a wheelbarrow and began to push him towards a newly dug grave in the cemetery.

On the way a farmer stopped them and was informed that the man was too idle to eat and had had nothing for a week.

"Well," said the farmer, "I've a sack of peas he can have."

"Are they shelled?" asked the idle one.

"No," said the farmer.

The other turned to his bearers.

"Carry on with the funeral," he said.

The Ugly Duckling

WITH an agile spring the youth boarded the swiftly moving omnibus and sat down.

Presently the conductor came along to collect the young man's fare.

"You'd better be careful, my boy," he advised, "or maybe you'll get your picture in the paper after a trick like that."

"Well, and suppose I do?" asked the passenger sharply.

"Just think of all the poor people who have their meat wrapped up in newspapers," retorted the conductor.—London Answers.

A Pointed Remark

SHEEPSHANK, the butcher, had been poring over the pages of a well-worn dictionary for some moments. Suddenly he closed it with a bang and glowered at his wife.

"That Mrs. Vere-Browne is getting a bit too smart," he growled.

"Why, what's the matter now?" asked Mrs. Sheepshank, who was rather surprised at her husband's criticism of a good customer.

"Well," returned the butcher, "yesterday she told me I ought to rename my scales the 'Ambush Brand,' and the dictionary says that ambush means 'to lie in wait.'"

An Acquired Taste

THE applicant for the situation as cook was insolent-looking and untidy.

"Don't engage her," whispered the prospective employer to his wife. "I don't like the look of her."

"But," remonstrated his wife, "just consider the reputation for cooking she bears."

"That doesn't matter," said the man, testily. "We don't want any she-bears cooked. We don't like them."

Revolutionary

REPORTS of wars and famines in China are less important than certain recent happenings in the political field.

Four native workers in the Chinese customs service have just been promoted to deputy commissionerships, the first that natives have held in forty years.

Chinese residents of the British concession at Tientsin have been given equal rights with whites and equal representation in the municipal council. Natives are also to be admitted to the public parks in the International Settlement at Shanghai.

That the people who live in a country by right of birth should have privileges similar to those claimed by alien settlers seems not very revolutionary to us, but it is an epochal change in China.

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, April 30.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Up to read the mail and an amusing note from Michael Arlen, who signed it "Mike, the rug seller." And Frazier Hunt came and told a long story about a man with a shaggy bear to which I listened earnestly a half hour before discovering it pointless.

So to walk in Central Park with my dog, stopping to watch the elderly croquet players holding aloft their sun parasols, and also the children riding in goat carts along the mall. And the Shakespeare garden abloom with lovely flowers, as pretty a spot as in all the city.

In the evening with Courtney Ryley Cooper and our wives to the circus dress rehearsal, and we fed fish to Goliath, the sea elephant, and called on Lillian Leitzel, of the flying rings, in her dressing room, and found her gay as ever. So home and to bed.

The theory of a rotting speck destroying the barrel of apples is often illustrated in the change that comes to a New York block. One year it will present an aura of dignity, and the next a jangle of trade. Not so long ago a glorified delicatessen found a corner location in a block in the Fashionable Fifties. The effect was that of a spawning fish in migration. In a few months the entire block was dotted with cheap-john stores. Associations are formed to protect streets from trade invasion, but if there is a weak link in the chain efforts seem futile. So great a residential thoroughfare as Fifth avenue was unable to resist it.

The Chinese, having successfully made a dent in the Broadway restaurant field, now threaten to cut capers in another industry. That is the field of chiropody. Most of them have come from European centers where the "pedicure Chinois" is firmly established. New York now has almost a score of Chinese chiropody parlors, where attendants garbed in mandarin-like robes give a razzle dazzle to the business of ousting a corn.

Adaptability of Chinese in any country is a striking characteristic. While they live usually in sequestered quarters beyond the main arteries, they absorb manners and customs quickly. The world outside never becomes terra incognita. Head waiters say the Chinese can order an American meal more expertly than those who have lived here all their lives. They go to the most successful plays, learn the language more quickly, and adopt the American manner of dress more rapidly than other foreigners. Their imitative powers are superb.

The patented cigar and cigaret lighter business—which came to America from London—has ballooned to astounding proportions. The first lighter was made after the war for one-armed ex-service men. Only one hand is needed to manipulate the device. But the idea caught on for everybody. Yearly sales in America amount to millions. Almost every big store has its lighter department and innumerable specialty shops deal almost exclusively in the novelty. They have been made into an infinite variety of shapes, with inset watches, cigar cutters and receptacles for lipsticks, eyebrow pencils and mirrors. In the beginning they sold in London for about $10, but now there are some designed to sell for as high as $600. While no figures are available, it must have been a kick in the pants for the match business. The original inventor is said to have been an obscure tinkerer who doesn't have to tinker any more.

Almost every man has dreams of inventing a gim-crack that will permit him to slam down his desk and dance in the streets awhile. But the obstacles are great. A patent lawyer tells of a New Yorker who concocted a simple device that he, as well as heavy Wall Street interests, believed a gold mine. But when application was made for a patent it was discovered it infringed 153 other similar devices.

The Talker

By DR. FRANK CRANE

I know a person, it happens to be a woman, who is a great talker.

She never says anything that it worth remembering, but she talks constantly.

Things that are so obvious and commonplace that others never think of mentioning she is always commenting upon. She seems to have an abundance of energy, but it all runs to making a noise with her mouth.

As far as can be seen the talker never does accomplish much. It is natural to seek self expression, but to express everything is about the same as expressing nothing.

There is a difference between the talker and the doer, between a man who is able to describe things fluently and exactly and well, and the man who can do things and cannot describe them at all.

Your talker can tell all about a good dinner, but your doer can put on an apron and get a good dinner, although she cannot describe how it is done.

What this world needs is more doers, more people who can express themselves in efficient action.

An examination or a test is of little value in ascertaining one's ability. The real way to find out that is to set them upon a task and see whether or not they perform it well.

Doing clears the mind and makes for clearness of ideas. Talking does not do anything much except to entertain one's self and possibly one's friends with pleasant sounds.

Yet there is something entertaining about a talker, something sociable and companionable. If they do not do anything else they cheer us up a bit.

Talk helps to lubricate humanity and makes social friction less liable.

For there are some people who carry silence to an excess. They would get along much better if they would frankly express themselves.

A story is told of three hunters in Canada. After breakfast one morning one of them said, "Did you hear that dog?" No answer was made until the next morning after breakfast. A second one then said, "What dog?" On the third morning the third member of the party was seen packing his traps. They asked him what he was going to do, and he said: "I am going away. There's too much rag chewing around here for me."

OH, THESE WOMEN!

By LEOLA ALLARD.

A THIRTY-TWO carat diamond is a thirty-two carat diamond to Peggy Joyce, but a Vanderbilt is only a Vanderbilt. So she poured a glass of champagne on Erskine Gwynne Vanderbilt's shirt front. He had printed a story about her called "Five Times a Bride, But Never a Wife." Not only that, but she lifted an arm heavy with diamonds, and "pointed a jeweled finger at him," and quoted something about rags being royal raiment.

You know life in Paris is MORE FUN! Peggy's party and Gwynne's party left the cafe together in perfect harmony and understanding—and there was another front page story.

Peggy is going to make Paris her "permanent home." But knowing Peggy's interpretation of the words "forever and ever," America is not taking it to heart.

Isabella Lecieux, the 76-year-old lady who got lost for two days in New York subway, and is happy to announce that she will go to France to spend her remaining days, where they haven't any "such contraptions," might save time and money by going to Chicago. They never had one, haven't got one, and she probably wouldn't live till they get one.

Peggy Tudor, asking a divorce, reveals the fact that last January she married Alfonso de Figueroa Bermejillo, son of the Duke of Tovar, and second cousin to the King of Spain. Peggy didn't mention the marriage.

Proving that marrying into royal families is too common to be news any more, out in Hollywood.

Florence Patek, originator of the theater party bureau idea, and head of one of them in New York, says that no play can be a success unless the women like it. After selling plays to women theatergoers 365 days each year for many years, Miss Patek tells you: "Prize fight, race track and police plays are promptly turned down by the women, who are more romantic than men and want love interest and sex aplenty in their plays."

If matinees are not a success, a "flop" is indicated, says Miss Patek.

The latest thing to make women more beautiful is the starch bath. Don't know who originated it, but dumping a half box of ordinary starch into one's bath is said to whiten the skin and make it soft and lovely. There isn't enough trouble in the world now, women have to keep on getting more beautiful.

Businessmen are such cold, hard fellows:

When a certain Queen, very certain she was, visited America, her suite at a big hotel was made lovely with rare art objects loaned by various businessmen who may have been optimistic, and again may have been merely hospitable. But as the Queen was leaving one large city she remarked how much she had enjoyed the suite and she asked if she might take something from it as a souvenir. Asked what, she indicated a rare lamp. The dealer who furnished the lamp was asked if he wanted the honor of lamping a Queen.

"Sure she can have it," said he heartlessly. "Sure—for $500."

She did NOT!

The very latest word in things to intrigue and annoy the careful housekeeper is the "skyscraper." It is a what-not, or that's what is used to be called, on which to put china dogs and cats and things.

It has shelves and fits into a corner.
